Red Sox 10-7 Favorites to Win World's Series

THOUSANDS IN TICKET RUSH

Big money is being wagered on the World's Series and on the opening game at Braves Field Saturday, with the Red Sox a 10 to 7 favorite against the Brooklyns in either proposition.

E. E. Smathers, the horseman, has placed $20,000 to $14,000 on the Red Sox to take the series, according to dispatches from New York.

John A. Drake of New York put up $5,000 against $3,500 on the Red Sox. L. J. Stokes made a curb bet of $1,000 against $700 the same way. J. W. Ball & Company of New York handled nearly the same proposition, $1,000 to $750.

SPECULATOR FINED $15.

The Dodger fans—despite talk of what Brooklyn will do to Boston—were asking odds of two to one today.

A police war was waged against speculators in the rush of Boston fans to get their tickets for the series at the Fenway Park box office today.

Harry Epstein of Brooklyn was arrested on the Jersey street side of the park for speculating and was fined $15 in Roxbury court, despite his plea that he was only trying to buy tickets for "personal friends."

The arrest of Epstein was made on a technical charge that he was occupying the street for the purpose of dealing in baseball tickets without a permit from the street commissioners.

Matters moved fast for Epstein. He was hustled down to Back Bay police station and booked and was in time to be transferred to Roxbury court for a morning hearing.

He pleaded not guilty and made his excuse about trying to buy for friends.

But Special Officer J. F. Flaherty, who made the arrest, testified that Epstein stood on the Jersey street sidewalk, where fans were coming and going for tickets, and called out:

"Buy and sell tickets for the baseball games."

Then Flaherty held up two tickets for the opening game Saturday which he said Epstein had when arrested.

So Epstein was fined.

From the neighborhood of Ebbets Field in Brooklyn are heard, so New York dispatches say, some valiant promises about what the Dodgers will do to the Red Sox.

There is Wilbert Robinson, Wilbert

FAIR FAN WHO IS FIXED FOR THE BIG SERIES

Mrs. Havard S. Kent of Chelsea, one of the first women to get her World's Series tickets at Fenway Park box office today.

FANS INSIST ON SCANDAL PROBE

The Giants-Dodgers baseball scandal has all died down—just like a sea in a gale or a fire in a kettle of fat.

Boston fans, who were calling for a probe of the scandal when they left off and went to bed last night, went at it again when they rose today.

On the eve of a World's Series there is usually one and only one topic—the chances of the respective teams.

But the question of Dodgers vs. Red Sox had to divide attention in fandom today with the hectic subject of what Manager "Jawn" McGraw said about some of his Giants, and the way they played that celebrated game against the Brooklyns.

Baseball players are used to knocks, but it hurts the Dodgers like sin to have fought their way into the series and have "Muggsy" McGraw or anyone else hand them any indirect slap about the Giants having played yellow ball against them in a pennant-deciding game.

Jack Coombs of the Brooklyns was asked what he thought about it. Jack, as the dispatches from Brooklyn re-

BULGARS HURL BACK INVADERS

Berlin, Oct. 5.—The Rumanian army that invaded Hungary near the "Iron Gate" of the Danube has made further progress near Orsova, the German War Office admitted today.

By SIDNEY B. CAVE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Oct. 5.—Rumanian troops that invaded Bulgaria have been defeated in battle and flung back across the Danube.

A Bulgarian War Office report reached London this afternoon from Sofia claiming that the rout of the Rumanians was complete.

The Rumanians were surrounded and parts of the army cut to pieces. The pontoon bridge over which the invasion had been carried out was destroyed by Austrian monitors, the official statement said.

THRONG AT HEARING OF SMALL

Mountain View, N. H., Oct. 5. Before Frederick L. Small left his cottage on Lake Ossipee the day of his wife's death, he stood in the doorway and said:

"Goodby!"

This was the testimony of George E. Kennett, the man who drove Small to the railroad station here, at the hearing on the charges against Small today.

The State claims that Small killed his wife, then arranged a device to set fire to his house later, took a train in mid-afternoon for Boston, and was in Boston when the cottage caught first that night.

If the State's claim is true, then Small stood in the doorway of his cottage and said "Goodby" to his wife she lay strangled, beaten—dead—on a bed in the upper room, and he knew it.

600 AT HEARING.

This fact made the moment when Kennett testified to Small's farewell an intensely dramatic one. There were some 600 persons in Chamberlin's Hall, where the hearings were held. Spectators even reared ladders against the side of the building so that they could look in at the windows. Small, who came to court handcuffed to Sheriff Chandler, sat at the table with his counsel and direct-

ROPER CASE GOES TO JURY

The jury which is to decide the fate of Albert J. Roper, the young man charged with murdering his father, a well-to-do Tewksbury florist, was given the case for deliberation just before noon today at East Cambridge courthouse.

It was expected that Roper would know his fate before night.

Not a person in the crowded courtroom left his seat as Judge Stevens finished his hour and one-half charge to the jury.

He stated that Roper had unquestionably told falsehoods and made false statements about his father, but that they should not be considered unless they had a direct bearing on the act charged.

In speaking of the $10 gold piece that had figured prominently in the case Judge Stevens said:

"Of course if the $10 gold piece which was on the person of the dead man as $15 the night of the murder was found on the person of the defendant the following morning, that is significant. On the other hand, you have the defendant's explanation of that coin."

The government eliminated in its case that Roper was murdered by his son for money. Young Roper declared that he was innocent, and his defence was an alibi. He and witnesses for the defence, including twelve-year-old Dorothy Fox, swore that he was at the Fox home in Roxbury the night of the murder, which took place in Roper's greenhouse in Tewksbury.

Umpires Meet Here Today to Agree on Rules

It was announced that the four umpires chosen for the World's Series would meet in Boston today to agree upon a uniform interpretation of rules.

The "infield fly" is one point upon which an agreement is desired because, in the American League a runner must hold his base on such a fly, while in the National League he can run at his own risk.

Former Brookline Girl Surprise in Title Golf Match

An upset that will always be remembered in the history of women's national golf championships developed today at the Belmont Springs Country Club when Mrs. C. C. Auchincloss of New York defeated Mrs. William A. Gavin, the noted English sportswoman, generally picked to win the national title, by a 2 and 1 score.

It was a conquest that only comes once in a lifetime. Mrs. Auchincloss was Miss Rosamond Baltonstall of Brookline. Her chance of winning against Mrs. Gavin was regarded as about 1,000 to one.

Mrs. Auchincloss lost the first two holes out; at the turn she had squared the match, and led by 2 up out in 42 against 43. From the seventh hole at the match Mrs. Gavin was confronted by a lead, and the harder she tries the worse her game broke.

Another surprise was the ousting of Mrs. Tom Hucknall of New Jersey, who defeated Miss Laurie Kaiser, the champion of Missouri, by score of 1 up.

Miss Mildred Caverly, the Philadelphia champion, made a runaway match of it against Mrs. Caleb F. Fox of Philadelphia, the score being 3 to 1.

Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta Ga., who is now looks to be the coming title holder, defeated Miss Elaine Rosenthal, former Western champion, 2 and 1.

In the semi-finals Mrs. Hucknall meets Miss Caverly and Mrs. Auchincloss plays Miss Stirling.

FEW MEN TO BE LEFT ON BORDER

Massachusetts troops were ordered home from the Mexican border today by General Funston. The official order was given out at San Antonio, Texas, and quickly flashed to Boston. No date for the movement of the troops was given, but it is expected they will start in a few weeks.

The troops include the following units:

Fifth, Eighth and Ninth Infantry.

All cavalry except one troop. (There are four troops.)

One signal battalion, less one company.

The Second Infantry Regiment has already been ordered home.

After the Second and the infantry regiments and other units named in today's list start away the Bay State troops left on the border will include only one cavalry troop, one signal corps company and the Second Battalion Artillery, formerly the Second Corps Cadets.

The commanders on the border are anxious that the troops be all sent home at one time and sent to Boston for a big welcome home parade. Adjutant-General Pearson said:

"The boys deserve a big welcome home."

No details are announced of how or when the Massachusetts troops will be started for home.

Other units designated in the return list are:

New York—First Battalion of Engineers and field hospital No. 1.

Connecticut—Second Infantry, two troops of cavalry, field hospital ambulance company.

Illinois — One squadron and two troops of the First Cavalry.

Maryland brigade headquarters of the First Maryland, Second Field Hospital and Company A of the Engineers.

Missouri, one signal company.

California, Second and Seventh Infantry brigade headquarters, the engineer signal company, ambulance company, field hospital company, one squadron of cavalry.

Kansas, Second Infantry.

District of Columbia, field hospital.

2 PRIESTS KILLED; 20 FIREMEN BURIED

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—The death list in the fire that today Christian Brothers College here reached six at 1 o'clock today, and it was feared it would grow larger. Twenty firemen were buried when a blazing wall fell shortly after noon. Seven of them were rescued unconscious and badly injured. Three bodies have been sighted, weighted down by blazing ruins, but it is impossible to get them. The other ten were unaccounted for. More than half of the college buildings are in ashes. Two aged priests were cremated and an attendant died from injuries.

SAYS DEATH CORD CAME FROM SMALL'S MOTORBOAT

Kennett's testimony had held the interest of every listener, because it covered the most dramatic moment in the whole tragedy—the moment when Small left his home.

Before describing how Small said "Goodby" at the door, Kennett had testified that when he arrived at the cottage, he handed Small some mail, and that Small either handed them to someone inside the door or laid them on a table there.

The hearing began at 9, with the court room crowded and waiting. County Solicitor Mills outlined the case, said that some evidence would not be disclosed at this preliminary hearing unless it was necessary to do so to hold Small for the Grand Jury, and then broke to rail his witnesses.

He called Winfield F. Chase of Wakefield, a rural free delivery carrier and an insurance agent, as the first witness.

AGENT TESTIFIES.

Q.—Did you ever have any business dealings with Small? A.—Yes, on September 18, 1915, he phoned me to come and write some fire insurance on his house. I wrote $2,000 on the house and $1,000 on the furniture. February 2, 1916, he phoned to ask me the cost of a $20,000 joint policy on the lives of himself and his wife, and after consulting Carroll Piper of Wolfboro, I told him such a policy would cost him $897.80 a year.

The second witness was Charles Scaggel, a grocer, believed to have been the last person to see Mrs. Small alive except the person or persons to produce the homicide for her death.

Scaggel is a grocer, and he delivered some goods at the Small home on the day of Mrs. Small's death.

Q.—What did you deliver there? A.—Oil, yeast, eggs, pork and soap—at least I ordered the oil, and a little later Mr. Small phoned for the things about 9 o'clock.

Q.—Did you see Mrs. Small? A.—Yes, she was in the door between the sitting room and the kitchen.

Q.—Where was Small? A.—In the kitchen.

"NOTHING UNUSUAL."

Cross-examined, he said he was in the kitchen with Mr. and Mrs. Small for about ten minutes, then outside with Small for a time, then went to another cottage nearby, and finally returned to his home.

Q.—Did you notice anything unusual about Mr. Small that day? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you notice how he was dressed, whether he had his coat on? A.—No, sir.

He said there was a gasoline engine in Small's workshop, which had been taken from Small's motorboat, but he did not know just where it was placed in the workshop.

Then George N. Kennett, clerk at the Central House, and the man who drove Small to the station on the day of the murder, was called to the stand.

"Small telephoned me about 2 o'clock," he testified, "to call to drive him to the train, not later than 3:30 that afternoon."

Q.—You did as he requested? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was Small there when you reached the cottage? A.—Yes.

HANDED HIS MAIL.

Q.—Did he keep you waiting? A.—No, sir. When I got there he came out and I gave him his mail, and he either laid it down or handed it to somebody inside the door, and then he came out and we drove away.

Q.—Did you see anybody else there? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you see him kiss his wife goodby? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did he ask you into the house? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Was he in the habit of asking you in? A.—He did sometimes.

Q.—Did you hear a door slam as you drove away? A.—I don't remember.

Small, during this questioning, sat with his head on his hand, listening intently, and occasionally speaking to his attorneys. When County Solicitor Hill finished his examination of Kennett, Small's counsel, Attorney Matthews, began.

Q.—Did Small have his grip with him when you drove up to the house? A.—I'm not quite sure whether he had it with him or whether he stepped back for it.

Q.—Was Small out of your sight at any time? A.—He was behind the door for a second.

(Small claims that he kissed his wife behind the door before driving off with Kennett.)

Q.—Did Small say anything? A.—He said "Good-by!"

Q.—Did he have his overcoat on his arm? A.—I could not say.

Q.—When you turned your carriage around, was your back to the door?

A.—Yes.

BACK TO THE DOOR.

Q.—So that if any one stood in the door then you could not have seen her? A.—No, sir.

Q.—When Small phoned to you about two o'clock, was there anything unusual in his voice? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Was there anything unusual in his action at the cottage? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you see him later? A.—Yes, at the hotel before the train left.

Q.—Did he appear excited or uneasy then? A.—No, sir.

Kennett was excused, and the State called to the witness stand E. C. Conner, Small's friend, who came to Boston with him on the afternoon of the murder.

Conner was shown the piece of cord with which Mrs. Small was strangled, and was asked if he could identify it.

"Yes," he said. "It was used to fix the steering wheel of Small's motor boat, on a fishing trip I took with Small August 5. The cord was set in the motorboat Friday, four days before the murder, when I saw the motorboat hauled up on the beach.

Conner then told the story of Small's joint insurance policy for $20,000 on the lives of himself and his wife. The first payment, $1,107.66, he said, was paid by Small.

Then he described the trip to Boston with Small, and how they took the car to Scollay square, and walked to Young's Hotel.

HEARD PHONE TALK.

He told of their visit to the Majestic Theatre. After the theatre they went to the grill at Clark's Hotel and then returned to Young's.

Q.—Did you hear what Mr. Ferren told Mr. Small over the phone at Young's? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did he say? A.—Ferren said, "Your house is burned and we fear your wife is in the ruins."

Q.—What did Small say? A.—"My God, it can't be true."

Q.—What else was said? A.—Mr. Ferren said "It is true, we can't find her anywhere." Small then said to me, "Come here, Ed," and told me what had happened.

Q.—Did Small say anything else about his wife? A.—He called her "My love" and "my pet," and said he was all alone in the world.

Conner then told of the automobile ride from Boston to Mountain View, which was made in three and a half hours. He described their arrival here, the trip out to the ruins and the finding of the body. He also told of finding the footprints in the sand on the shore of the lake in front of the Small home.

$6,000 IN GEMS IN FIRE.

Q.—Did Small say anything at the fire? A.—Yes, he said there were $6,000 worth of jewels in the ruins that there no good to him then and that anybody could have them who wanted them.

Q.—Was Small a drinking man? A.—He drank a little.

Q.—Did he have anything on the trip to Boston? A.—Yes, he had two or three drinks.

Previously Conner had testified that he and Small had planned to go to Manchester, N. H., from Boston to attend a Red Men's meeting.

Under cross-examination by Attorney Mathews, Conner said there was nothing unusual about Small's demeanor on the trip to Boston up to the time Small received the call from Farren. After receiving the call, Conner said Small appeared to be deeply grieved and that he tried to comfort him on the way back to Mountain View.

Conner stated he last saw Small's motorboat drawn up in front of the cottage and covered over.

Q.—Were you acquainted with the interior of the Small cottage? A.—With the ground floor.

TELLS OF WORKSHOP.

Q.—You knew what was in the workshop? A.—There were a lot of tools, the motor boat engine, a rudder, some ropes and other things.

Q.—It was easy to get into the workshop, wasn't it? A.—Yes, there was a passage leading right into it.

Q.—If anybody had entered the house after Mr. Small had left he might have gone into the workshop and secured a piece of cord? A.—Yes.

Q.—The workshop would be the most likely place to keep rope and cord, would it not? A.—I think so.

After one or two other questions by County Solicitor Hill, Conner was excused and his wife, Mrs. Mary L. Conner, took the stand. She testified the cord found around Mrs. Small's neck looked like the one she saw in the motorboat on August 5 when Mrs. Small complained that the steering wheel would not work.

Q.—What sort of a cord was it? A.—The cord in the boat was a peculiar one. It looked like the one Dr. Holedon had in his hand at the autopsy. I felt of the cord in the boat two or three times, but could not say it was the same one Dr. Holedon had, although they looked alike.

Q.—Did Mrs. Small have a gold crown on one of her teeth? A.—It was either a crown or a filling, I don't know which.

Frank O. Ferren, proprietor of the Central House, the next witness called by the prosecution, told of calling Small on the telephone in Boston and telling him of the fire.

Q.—What did you say to Mr. Small over the phone? A.—I said, "Hello, there has been a very bad fire here. Your home has been burned flat. Where is you wife? We have looked for her everywhere and we can't find her. Where is she? We fear she is in the ruins."

Q.—What did he say? A.—"My God, my home, my pet gone, alone. It can't be true, you don't mean it." And then I heard him say, "God, come here, hear what this man says." I then told Conner the same thing and suggested they start back to Mountain View by automobile.

Ferren was later cross-examined by Attorney Mathews as to his visit to the scene of the fire, Small's condition when he arrived at the hotel and the circumstances surrounding the discovery of the body.

Just before the morning session closed Miss Rose Welch, a spectator, fainted and was carried out of the courtroom.

TOMORROW G. O. P. 'GET-TOGETHER'

Governor McCall, Senators Lodge and Weeks and the various candidates for office will attend the "night before" gathering of the Republicans tomorrow night in Young's Hotel.

Ferren was to be reception from 8 to 10 o'clock, prior to which there will be numerous dinners of Republican organizations.

John L. Balstonstall of Beverly is chairman of the reception committee, assisted by 100 others, including the chairmen of the city committees and the congressional secretaries.

The State Committee and chairmen of the city committees will dine at 6 o'clock at Young's. Several thousand invitations have been issued for the reception, and all Republicans will be welcomed by Chairman Thurston and his associates.

AUTO RACE FROM MAINE TO BOSTON

Somewhere along the country roads of Maine two automobiles that left Houlton at 7 o'clock today are racing toward Boston in a race that will terminate at the Adams House in this city. The contestants are Jake Wise, and A. D. Holyoke of Woodstock, N. B., who is driving a car owned by George W. Boyer of that city.

The race is for a stake of $500 that was bet by the owners of the cars, who are keen rivals in the automobile game. Each car is carrying four persons. It is the first automobile race in the vicinity of Houlton and was watched by hundreds of spectators.

Wise took the lead at the start. But a short distance separated the cars a few hours after the start of the race.

RADCLIFFE TO HAVE FIRE DRILLS

At a mass meeting of the Radcliffe Student Government Association, Elisabeth Woodworth, '17, was elected vice-president, to succeed Alice Bryant, who is taking her senior year at Barnard College. Miss Woodworth is also the college fire chief, and is planning frequent and unexpected drills. As vice-president she will have under her direction the board of monitors in classes, this year for the first time under student government, rather than under the college office.

FALLS 18 FEET IN ELEVATOR WELL

Fred Young, watchman at No. 81 Wareham street, South End, early today discovered that Joseph Kosh, forty-six years old, and married, of No. 389 Main street, Medford, had fallen from the street floor down the elevator well, a distance of eighteen feet. The injured man was taken to the City Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a wound on the forehead and numerous abrasions.

THIRTEEN NEW PLAGUE CASES ARE REPORTED IN BOSTON

The State Board of Health today reported a total of thirteen new cases in Boston within the last twenty-four hours and a grand total of twenty-four cases in the whole State.

Last Monday twelve new cases were reported for Boston. There are on record 130 cases for the first five days of this month in the whole State, making a total of 1,147 cases for twelve months ending today.

The highest number of cases before came in 1909, when the total reached 923.

Of the new cases in the State there are three in Waltham and one a married woman of Springfield, Mrs. Walter Morey of No. 539 Union street.

NEW OF CASES.

The State Department of Health's report today is as follows:

Cambridge—Two cases, names withheld by local officials.

Melrose—Audrey Cassar of Highland avenue.

West Newbury—Theodore Scott, three and a half years, Morrill street; removed to Haverhill Contagious Hospital.

Somerville—One case, name withheld by local officials.

Waltham—Isadore Berman of Fountain street; R. W. Rines of Russell street; Edgar Bourquin of Main street.

Longmeadow—Vivian Torkelson of Longmeadow street.

Springfield—Barbara Seelye of Chestnut street; Mrs. Walter Morey of Union street.

Boston—Thirteen cases.

The Harvard infantile paralysis commission says more volunteers are needed to give their blood for paralysis serum.

In the first week since the Harvard commission was established it has assisted in the diagnosis and treatment of twenty cases of infantile paralysis. The serum obtained from the blood of those who have recovered from the disease in the past has been given in fourteen cases. Of these two who had been ill for some time, died; four were paralyzed before the serum was given, and of the remaining eight, who were given serum in the earliest stages of the disease, none has as yet developed paralysis. These results are encouraging for the use of serum in the earliest stages of the disease.

FURNISHED FREE.

In so short a time and with so few cases concerned, no general conclusions can be drawn, nor the permanent value of the serum established. The limited experience, however, of the Harvard commission corroborates to date the results obtained in New York and elsewhere

Too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the fact that beneficial results from the use of serum can only be hoped for when it is given in the very earliest stages of the disease and before the evidence of even the slightest paralysis appears. The experts of the commission are on call day and night at the Harvard Medical School to respond to requests from physicians for assistance in the early diagnosis of the disease and for administering serum if desired.

The serum and the services of the diagnosticians are furnished free of charge by the Harvard commission.

More serum is urgently needed if the commission is to respond to all the demands made upon it. In the first week fifteen persons have volunteered and permitted the required amount of blood to be taken from them by a process which is without the slightest danger. The serum is obtained from this blood of persons who have recovered from the disease.

The commission will gladly pay the travelling expenses of those who wish to volunteer and will come to the Harvard Medical School.

"COXEY'S ARMY" IN DORCHESTER RAID

How "Coxey's Army," a name given to a gang of boys in the Freeport section of Dorchester, captured Julius Werner on that thoroughfare in "Ku Klux" fashion and took him to William Wauleon of No. 572 Freeport street, that district, on September 21 for punishment, was told today in the Dorchester court. Werner alleged he was slapped in the face by Wauleon. The latter said he merely pushed Werner away from him. The case was placed on file.

HEALTH EXPERT TALKS TO MOTHERS

Worcester, Sept. 5.—Dr. Hyvas Jones of the State Health Board, was the principal speaker today at the convention of the Massachusetts Branch of the National Congress of Parent Teachers and Mothers' Association of America at the Bancroft Hotel. He dealt at length on the use of preventatives in combating the spread of infantile paralysis. Mrs. Davis O. Mears followed with a talk on "Child Welfare Day."

Peabody Urges Trained Clergy

The trained minister with a university education is to be the savior of religion, Rev. Francis G. Peabody, president of the Harvard Alumni Association, said in Appleton Chapel today, where he conducted morning prayer for the students as well as opened the observance of the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the Harvard Divinity School.

"The reason why so many of our preachers fail to reach the intellectual is they cannot hold thinking people with their intelligent reasoning. The successful preacher, one that can reach the people, must be well versed in modern problems and have a good intelligent grasp on his subjects."

Great Increase In Auto Licenses

Automobile registrations in September continued at a record-breaking pace in this Commonwealth. The highway commission in last month issued 4,555 number plates, as against 3,484 in September, 1915, an increase of 32 per cent.

Total registrations for 1916 will easily eclipse all previous records. Already 125,589 automobiles have been registered this year, a gain of 30 per cent. over first nine months of 1915 and compared with the previous record of 102,633 for the full 12 months in 1915. In the 1913 year only 62,600 number plates were issued, an amount less than 50 per cent. of that for current year to date.

WOMEN WIN SUITS AGAINST BANKER

Mrs. Elizabeth Crews was awarded a verdict of $500 and Mrs. Susan J. Briggs was awarded $250, in their suits against John J. Martin, president of the Exchange Trust Company, for injuries received in a collision of automobiles at the junction of Commonwealth avenue and Allston street, Brighton, November 4, 1914. Mrs. Crews was riding in a machine owned by Mrs. Briggs and sustained personal injuries, while Mrs. Briggs sued for injuries to her machine.

B. & M. EARNINGS OF FOUR MILLIONS

Greatest earnings in the history of the Boston & Maine Railroad, which recently went into the hands of a receiver, were shown today in the road's report for the year which ended June 30, 1916.

Operating revenues were $52,076,425, a gain of $5,402,379, or about 11 per cent., over last year, while operating expenses increased only $238,198 to $36,197,955. The net operating revenue was $15,877,469.

The net income for the year was $4,965,491, compared with a loss of $334,462 in the preceding year.

Nearly all the increase in revenue came from the transportation of freight, according to the report, which is signed by J. H. Hustis, former president, now receiver of the road.

The report states that the road's passenger business has been disappointing revenue from that quarter again decreasing on account of greater use of the automobile and refusal of the Public Service Commission to allow sufficient increases in fares.

ARREST GIRLS IN ANTI-VICE CRUSADE

Two girls frequently seen with sailors were arrested by Patrolmen Patten and Curran of the vice squad in a campaign started by the police to rid Tremont row and the Park street end of the Common of young girls at night. Weeping bitterly, one of the girls told a pitiful story of being persuaded to leave her home in Cambridge. She said she hadn't seen her mother for a week.

Gasoline Supply Exhausted in 1946

Attention, motorists!

The supply of gasoline will be exhausted in this country in less than thirty years at the present rate of consumption, according to Vann H. Manning of Washington, director of the bureau of mines.

Mr. Manning made this statement before a meeting of automobile men and merchants held in Washington to look into inquiry into the present high price of gasoline. It was then that he warned his hearers that the supply of petroleum in the United States would be exhausted in from twenty-seven to thirty years.

Automobile manufacturers figure that there will be 3,350,000 automobiles in operation by the first of the year. And next year's output will be a record breaker.

Mr. Manning pointed out that specific gravity should not be the determining factor in purchasing gasoline, and said tests had shown less than two per cent. difference in power between the 74 and 56 grades.

CURED HIMSELF OF THE LIQUOR HABIT

A Missouri Man After Drinking for Thirty-Five Years Banished His Craving for Liquor With a Simple Home Recipe.

Mr. Thos. J. D. O'Bannon, a well known resident of Missouri, living at R. F. D. No. 3, Fredericktown, Mo., banished his craving for liquor with a simple recipe which he mixed at home.

Mr. O'Bannon recently made the following statement: "I am 51 years old and had drank for thirty-five years. My craving was so great I could not quit liquor. More than a year ago I had the following simple recipe filled and began taking it and it entirely banished my craving for liquor. To 3 oz. of water add 20 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varlex Compound and 10 grains of pepsin. Take a teaspoonful three times a day. Any druggist can mix it for you or supply the ingredients at very little cost. The recipe can be taken of your own accord or given to anyone secretly in coffee, tea, milk or in food, as it has no taste, color or smell and is perfectly harmless. I believe any drunkard can cure himself with this simple recipe."

SUNDAY TABERNACLE READY FOR TRAIL-HITTERS

Everything is in readiness for the trail-hitters at the big Billy Sunday tabernacle that is rapidly drawing near completion on the old Huntington avenue baseball grounds.

The words "trail-hitters" and "Billy Sunday" are almost always coupled together. Wherever the great evangelist may preach are also found the trail-hitters, who swarm down the long lanes of sawdust to grasp the preacher's hand.

This is the way it is done:

As soon as the service is over, a trap door directly by the pulpit is raised and Billy Sunday drops down three feet on a small platform enclosed by a semi-circular railing.

TRAILS LEAD TO EVANGELIST.

All the sawdust trails in the great tabernacle lead to this little platform where Billy Sunday holds sway, after the close of his service. It is there that he does some of his most effective work, when the lesson of the sermon is driven home by a few words of personal appeal.

The trail-hitter leaves his name, which is written on a card that is dropped through an opening close by the platform. These cards are looked over by a special committee and then are sent to the postoffice clerks.

Every clergyman connected with the work has a box in the office. It is as large as the postoffice in many good-sized towns and arranged on much the same plan.

The ministers are supposed to visit the postoffice every day. The cards are sorted, depending upon the locality and denomination of the trail-hitter, everyone of whom is expected to get into touch with some minister for the purpose of private conference which may be had in several rooms in the tabernacle arranged for that purpose.

Cards that are not taken out of the office are sent to the minister in charge of the nearest church of the denomination of the trail-hitter. Hitting the trail is one of the most picturesque features of the Billy Sunday meetings.

ALL CLASSES HIT TRAIL.

If the same scenes that have been seen in other cities are re-enacted in Boston, the long lanes of sawdust will be filled with surging throngs of men and women, representing every strata of society, many of whom belong to what is known generally as the underworld.

Down the trail they will come to greet the evangelist by the hand, hoping to regain hope and courage in the fight that lies before them. The leaders in the Billy Sunday movement here in Boston believe there will be 21,000 converts during the stay of the evangelist in the city.

If that proves to be true, the trap door will swing downward many times and the little platform will be seen from the imprint of Billy Sunday's feet as he bends down to greet friends.

Close by the trap platform is the singing door which is opened when the trail-hitters surge forward. It is here that they will drop the cards, which in turn will be sorted and put into postoffice for distribution to the ministers.

There will be 8,000 in the great hair that will peal forth gospel hymns during the progress of the service. Billy Sunday is a great believer in music as a soul tonic. It will be a feature of all the meetings in the city.

SUPPRESS BUTLER'S ATTACK ON WILSON

Danville, Ill., Oct. 5.—A telegram which Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, sent to the annual convention of the Illinois State Bankers' Association is said to not to be made public, officers of the organization admit today.

The telegram, it was said, contained an attack upon President Wilson's policies and was not regarded as a document that should be presented at a non-political meeting.

Madam, there's no range like this in the world

See that Damper. It automatically regulates the oven and the fire. It places the Crawford Range in a class by itself.

Those scientifically arranged heat flues distribute the heat evenly in a Crawford Range. You can't have anything but perfect cooking in a Crawford.

The Damper and the Flues make

perfect from a constructional point of view. They give you more oven heat per pound of coal than any other stove on the market. Then there are those interchangeable ash hods! One full of coal, the other receiving the ashes. As one empties the other fills up.

One trip to empty the ashes and bring back the coal.

The damper which "bakes," "checks" and "kindles" with one motion!

The flues that distribute the heat evenly—no waste! And there are at least seventeen other Crawford advantages demonstrating why this Range is superior to all others.

I have been selling Crawford Ranges for years, Madam, and I am certain there is no other like it as a life investment for your home. And I'm quite sure no other Range can equal Crawford satisfaction.

BIG RUSH FOR TICKETS

is manager of the Dodgers. He says:

"We ari going to win and I think we can do it. Our team has played good ball all season, and we hold the lead almost all the way through, except for a day or two here and there. We measure up to the Red Sox, and with our team playing its best ball right now there is no reason why it can't win. We'll show the fans some real playing. Marquard, Coumbs, Cheney, Pfeffer and Smith will show them some pitching and we are not worrying."

"Rube" Marquard, who is slated to pitch for the Dodgers here Saturday, echoed Wilbert thus:

"This team has nothing to fear from Boston."

But Jack Coombs waxed real ferocious, just like this:

"We will be at right at their throats all the time. If any man believes the Red Sox will ride over the Dodgers he is reckoning without men of the stamp of Jake Daubert, Pfeffer, Marquard and Chief Myers."

So there you are.

STILL TALK OF SCANDAL.

The Giants-Dodgers' scandal, arising on the charges of Manager McGraw of the Giants, that his men played yellow ball against the Dodgers Tuesday, continued to fill the air today, accompanied by renewed demand for full investigation.

The "Royal Rooters" are ready for the series here and for their trip to Brooklyn.

A rival band looms up from the direction of Dodger-Town. They are the "Brooklyn Boosters."

The "Boosters" come with the Dodger team Saturday. They will boost Brooklyn while the "Rooters" root for the Red Sox.

Today brought the real rush for tickets. There are 28,000 reserved seats at Braves Field. Although the Red Sox team represents Boston in the series, the games here will be played at Braves Field on account of its major seating capacity.

COLD CASH TALKS.

Successful applicants for seats received a card notifying them to come with the money—CASH, NOT CHECK—to Fenway Park box office and exchange the card AND CASH for the series tickets.

The first batch of cards was received in the mail yesterday by applicants, who hustled to exchange them for tickets. Out of the 28,000 reserved seat tickets for the field, 4,000 were given out to yesterday's line. Four thousand more were sent out in the mail.

President Lannin expected that the remaining 20,000 would nearly all go out today by mail or window lines.

More than 1,700 tickets had been issued by 10 o'clock, with 2,000 fans in line at the six windows of the box office. There were several women and girls in the sextuple line.

Fans were arriving by the thousand. They jammed all trolleys going near the park. They came in automobile and on foot.

LANNIN BUSY, TOO.

Six clerks, at their respective windows, received the notification cards and the money, issued tickets and kept the lines moving slowly but steadily.

President Lannin and his assistants attended to the mail orders.

Manager "Bill" Carrigan was surrounded by stacks of letters and telegrams. He opened them with alternate smiles and scowls.

The smiles were for messages of congratulation on landing the Red Sox in the pennant finals. The scowls were those of perplexity at appeals and more appeals for series seats.

The average fan, on receiving notice that he was among the lucky ones, made tracks for Fenway Park as fast as possible in order to secure his tickets. They realized that every hour of delay in attending to this meant more delay at the other end. So the early birds avoided the rush and saved time in the end.

There was an advance line of card holders at the box office windows at Fenway Park yesterday, but the real rush was on today, when the main deliveries of ticket cards reached the public.

The illness of Secretary Riley of the Red Sox has handicapped the office force, so that the last of the notifications are not yet sent out. Applicants can wait until tomorrow morning's mail before giving up hope, in case they do not receive a notification card today.

RUMANIANS ARE DEFEATED IN BULGARIA

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 5.—The Rumanian army that crossed the Danube and invaded Bulgaria has been defeated in battle, but the Rumanians escaped. An official statement issued by the Bulgarian War Office in Sofia today estimated the strength of the Rumanian army or invasion at fifteen or sixteen battalions.

The German War Office stated in an official report that the Rumanians were able to escape by a hasty flight before the encircling attacks of the Bulgarians and Germans.

The Rome wireless service put out a dispatch saying:

"It is denied in Bucharest that Austrian monitors destroyed the bridge across the Danube by which the Rumanians crossed into Bulgaria."

The foregoing information conflicts with a recent dispatch from Sofia saying that the invaders had been landed from boats in the Danube.

The Rumanians were defeated by soldiers drawn from the Bulgarian garrisons in Tutrakan and Rustchuk.

Following is the report issued by the Bulgarian War Office at Sofia:

"On the Danube front fifteen or sixteen battalions without any artillery which crossed the Danube, near Barbavo, advanced and occupied the villages of Siwopol, Kajamle, Boriossawo, Manlowtanowo, Colemowrajowo and Brechilina.

"In order to repulse them we sent two columns from Rustchuk and Tutrakan.

"In Dobrudja there has been great activity by enemy artillery and infantry along the entire front.

"All attempts by enemy infantry to advance were frustrated by our fire and by our successful attacks.

"A Russian warship off the Black Sea coast shelled the heights near the village of Tatladohokos.

"Our seaplanes attacked with great success an aerodrome north of Constanza."

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is musey and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

Artillery Duels on Somme Front

By SYDNEY B. CAVE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Oct. 5.—Artillery duels were in progress on the Somme front last night. London territorials carried out a successful raid in the Vimy area. In West Flanders the Germans tried to raid British trenches, but failed. The War Office gave out the following statement today on operations on the western front:

"During the night there was intermittent shelling south of the Ancre. North of Schwaben redoubt our artillery caused many casualties among enemy infantry that was on the march.

"London territorials carried out a successful trench raid in the Vimy district. East of St. Eloi in West Flanders the Germans failed in an effort to enter British trenches."

Petrograd Reports Offensive Continues

By International News Service.

Petrograd, Oct. 5.—The Russo-Rumania offensive against Von Mackensen's army in Dobrudja continues.

The war office in making this announcement today told of the capture of thirteen guns from the German allies.

On the Volhynian front battles are still in progress.

DENY BURNING SHIP CARRIED MUNITIONS

New York, Oct. 5.—Officials of the Italian line today denied that there were munitions on board the steamship Milazzo, which has put into port at Fayal, the Azores, with fire burning in her hold. The Milazzo, which sailed for Genoa on September 24, carried tons of steel, silk and sugar.

FRENCH 12 MILES FROM MONASTIR

By International News Service.

Paris, Oct. 5.—French troops operating against Monastir in the Balkan front have crossed the Teherna river, occupying Buf.

The capture of Buf was reported by the War Office today. It lies about six miles north of Florina and about twelve miles from Monastir.

FLAG RAISING ON COLUMBUS DAY

The raising of the American flag on Boston Common by Mayor Curley at 9 o'clock in the morning, will be a feature of the Columbus Day celebration. The exercises there will be opened by prayer by Rev. Reuben Kidner of Trinity Church. A battalion of United States troops from the forts in the harbor, with a band, will furnish the military feature of the celebration.

At the annual Columbus Day meeting at Faneuil Hall at 10 o'clock, where Mayor Curley will preside, the principal speaker will be Judge Michael J. Murray of the Boston Municipal Court.

There will also be athletic games on the Common, a band concert, and a meeting in Symphony Hall in the evening.

SUFFOLK APPORTIONMENT IS AGAIN SET ASIDE BY COURT

The full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court today set aside for the second time the report of the Suffolk County Apportionment Commission, declaring it to be unconstitutional and ordering a reapportionment of the county into representative districts.

This decision further complicates the tangle, inasmuch as the primary election was held a week ago Tuesday, when representatives were nominated from the affected districts.

The court rules that the county shall be divided into representative districts "equally as may be, according to the number of legal voters."

The petition before the court was brought by Herman Hormel, chairman of the Republican City Committee, and City Clerk James Donovan, as opposed to former Senator James H. Brennan, chairman of the apportionment committee and other members.

It was asserted by counsel for Hormel and Donovan that the report was unconstitutional, and that Ward 3, the home of former Senator Brennan, and Ward 5, the new district of Martin Lomasney, had been allotted three seats in the House each, while Ward 23, the home of Hormel, and Ward 6, the district of Donovan, had been assigned but two seats, despite the fact that these districts had a larger list of legal voters.

As the result of the finding of the court, Suffolk county is confronted with the greatest election tangle in its history.

JAIL SENTENCES FOR CHELSEA RIOTERS

Seven strikers at the A. G. Walton shoe plant, Heard and Spruce streets, Chelsea, were arraigned in the Chelsea Police Court today in connection with the violence, shooting and stone-throwing that has enlivened Chelsea since strike-breakers were put to work in an attempt to break the strike seven weeks ago.

The first injury to a patrolman guarding the plant and strike-breakers was reported today, Patrolman Edward Forbes being struck on the elbow with a stone. He arrested Harold Boyagin of No. 24 Chestnut street and after a scuffle took him to the police station.

Three hours later, after Boyagin had been arraigned in court and he had testified against him, the patrolman visited Dr. William Regan and found a small bone in his elbow was broken.

Boyagin, charged with throwing stones and assaulting an officer, pleaded not guilty, and the case was continued until October 11, bail being set at $1,000 on the assault charge and $200 on the stone-throwing charge.

Frank Fagny, No. 7 Vale street, Chelsea; Israel Ainbender, No. 4 Bloomingdale street, and Avilke Uerlants, No. 36 Orange street were arraigned for assault and battery on Herman Young, No. 302 Spruce street, Chelsea, a strike-breaker. Fagny was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction, Uerinets to one year and Ainbender was held $300. Ainbender's fine was suspended. Fagny and Uerinets appealed and were bound over in $500 and $1,000 respectively.

Harry Ginchick, No. 306 Spruce street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault and battery on Frank Palmer. His case was continued until October 9, bail being fixed at $100.

Other cases continued were against Harry Dobal, No. 60 Addison street, charged with disturbing the peace, and Krinker H. Germillion, No. 214 Chestnut street, charged with throwing stones and assault and battery on Peter Atterrian, and also with threatening Manoog Bebeian.

HOW THESE MOTHERS KEEP THEIR BABIES WELL AND STRONG

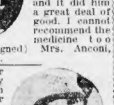
READ THEIR EXPERIENCES TOLD IN THEIR OWN WORDS

"Both my children have taken Father John's Medicine with good results. I always have a bottle of the medicine in the house for an emergency." (Signed) Mrs. S. Barson, 19 Bailey St., Lawrence, Mass.

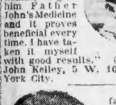
"I can recommend Father John's Medicine to anyone that is run down. We have used it in our family, myself, my husband and my little boy, for years with good results." (Signed) Mrs. J. W. King, 819 St. Clair St., Port Huron, Mich.

"I am sorry for any family that cannot afford Father John's Medicine for their children. It has been of great benefit both to me and my little baby." (Signed) Mrs. Mabel Edgar, R. F. D. No. 1, Shipping Port, Pa.

"My little boy took Father John's Medicine when he had trouble with his breathing and it did him a great deal of good. I cannot recommend the medicine too highly." (Signed) Mrs. Ancoli, Spencer, Mass.



"Whenever my little boy feels run down or in poor health, we give him Father John's Medicine and it proves beneficial every time. I have taken it myself with good results." (Signed) Mrs. John Kelley, 5 W. 101st St., New York City.



"All of my family have used Father John's Medicine with good results for several years, whenever we needed a tonic. My baby, Inez, aged 4, gained excellent health by using it." (Signed) Mrs. Jas. Williams, 51 Grove Ave., East Providence, R. I.

"I have given Father John's Medicine to my boys, Lawrence and Earl, and have taken it myself with excellent results. It certainly builds one up and gives you strength." (Signed) Mrs. John Dougherty, R. D. No. 13, Groton, N. Y.

Mothers especially recognize the value of Father John's Medicine because they know it is a pure and wholesome food medicine which makes flesh and strength without using alcohol or dangerous drugs, and is, therefore, safe for children as well as older people.—Advertisement.

SAYS ALL LIQUOR CONTAINS POISON

"All liquor contains poison," declares the September bulletin of the State Health Department, in the course of a complaint into the liquor analysis law, passed by the last Legislature, is "unnecessary."

The bulletin, issued today, says that through the influence of certain temperance organizations the law was passed, requiring the State Health Department, at the request of local boards of health, to make analysis of liquor for poisonous drugs or other substances dangerous to health.

The secretary of the organization which sought the law and the committee which gave hearings were told, the bulletin adds, that all liquor contains poisons and other substances injurious to health, the most prevalent being "that highly toxic substance known as 'alcohol.' Another toxic known as 'fusel oil' is always present in distinguishable quantities in high-grade straight distilled liquors and blends and compounds to a much less extent than in straight liquors.

RUSSIAN KEEP UP DRIVE ON STOKOD

By International News Service.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—On the Stokod river front in Volhynia (eastern front), the Russians are keeping up strong attacks.

The German War Office in its official report today said that the Russians had succeeded in reaching the German position north of Suhlin, but were afterward driven off. The railway station at Rozyscz has been bombed from the air.

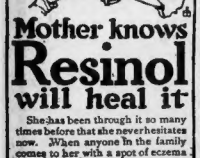
3 DEAD IN POWDER PLANT EXPLOSION

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—Three workmen were killed today in an explosion at the plant of the Illinois Powder Company at Grafton, Ill. The shock at the explosion was so severe that it was felt at Edwardsville, forty miles from the scene. It is estimated that 50,000 pounds of dynamite exploded.

How to Rid the Skin of Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.—Advertisement.



Mother knows Resinol will heal it

WOMEN IN PANIC AT NEW YORK MILK DEPOTS OVER SHORTAGE

New York, Oct. 5.—The first indications of panic or rioting due to the threatened milk famine came today. Hundreds of women seeking milk for their babies stormed milk stations in Harlem and when told the supply on hand was exhausted became hysterical and panic stricken.

The police were rushed to several stations to prevent serious trouble.

The first outbreak occurred at a station in East 107th street. Three hundred women called there. A supply of only two quarts was on hand and it was quickly exhausted.

As the fortunate ones went away hugging the precious bottles the disappointed ones began to raise a disturbance. Police were sent for but when they arrived the women had moved on to another station on 112th street. More trouble was threatened there and another call was sent of police.

The threatened riots have caused state and city officials to vigorously renew their efforts to bring about the settlement between the dairymen and the distributing companies.

Boston Is Still Supplied With Milk

Milk continued to roll into Boston today by the car load, despite the war of the Milk Producers' Association to shut off the supply until the contractors agree to pay the producers 50 cents for an 8½-quart can instead of 47 cents.

The contractors without exception declared to day that the usual supply was being received and that there was no shortage now or in sight. Investigation at leading Boston restaurants and large users of milk and at retail stores showed no shortage, all declaring that they were receiving their usual supply from the contractors.

An official of a chain of drugstores in Boston, consuming about 45,000 cans of milk each month, stated that his concern was not worrying. On the other hand he stated that he was recently talking with a man representing a contractor in Boston who stated that the contractors expected to feel the pinch by Monday.

A well-known restaurateur of Newspaper Row said:

"We serve on the average of 2,000 quarts of milk each day. As yet we have not felt the effect of the milk controversy, though, like all concerns that deal in milk, we are wondering where the thing will wind up."

At the milk station at East Somerville the usual milk trains arrived throughout the day, unloaded their supply, later returning with empty cans to different points throughout New England.

On the other hand Secretary Richard Pattee of the New England Milk Producers' Association, controlling his side of the battle from the Quincy House, today showed letters and telegrams from producers who claimed they had stopped their shipments.

According to Secretary Pattee forty producers in the Hillsboro section have stopped shipping. At Stratham, New Hampshire, he states, twenty-six producers have done likewise.

"PLENTY OF MILK."

Dr. Davis of the H. P. Hood & Sons Company says that there is plenty of milk on hand. "We do not deny that some milk has been stopped," said Dr. Davis, "but that amount is less than 1 per cent. of our total supply and has not affected us one iota.

"We are at present operating five butter factories and putting 10,000 quarts of milk into our condensery at Newport each day. Does that look as though we were short?"

Dr. Davis showed a telegram from C. C. Emerson of Fairlee, Vt., in which Mr. Emerson stated that he had always made a fair living profit on his milk and had always been treated satisfactorily during his fifteen years of supplying milk to the Hoods.

Another telegram reads: "I am making money on my cows. I am satisfied with the present price." This wire came from N. W. Porter, also of Fairlee.

Mr. Pattee brought forth the following letter:

"As a practical dairyman and president of the Maine Dairymen's Association I have had experience and opportunity to know that the farmers of Maine are not getting a new dollar for an old one in making milk for Boston market at the prices they have received.

"OFFER AN INSULT."

"I have noticed the prices offered by the Boston contractors to farmers in Maine for a Winter milk. I regard this offer as an insult to our people, especially in view of the increase they are asking the consumer to pay for that milk. Contractors say great stress upon their extra costs in handling, but take mightily little account of the extra cost to farmers for grain and help.

"I heartily endorse the efforts you are making to get a price that hardly represents the actual cost of production. I recommend that the farmers in Maine unitedly support your association by refusing to sell milk for less than the price you demand.

"I tender you my sympathy and that of the Maine Dairymen's Association, and you may depend upon me for anything we can do to help you.

(Signed) "H. M. TUCKER, President."

IN MISERY FROM STOMACH TROUBLE

Boston Business Man Claims Plant Juice Benefited Himself and Wife.

The Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton store, where the new herbal stomach remedy, Plant Juice, is being introduced, has presented a scene of unusual activity during the past few days. Many people are calling out of gratitude to thank The Plant Juice Man for what his remedy has done for them.

The following signed statement was recently received from Mr. E. F. Eames, a well known merchant of this city, who has been in business here for the past 25 years and has hosts of friends and acquaintances socially as well as in the business world. Mr. Eames resides at No. 69 Blackstone street. He said:

"For the past five or six years I have been in constant misery from stomach trouble, which took the form of indigestion and dyspepsia; I could keep nothing in my stomach. Was badly bloated with gas, had headaches, was very dizzy in morning, due to deranged liver, had palpitation of the heart, pains in my back and side, and was so bad I could scarcely get my breath at times. I was badly constipated, and had taken dozens of medicines without the slightest relief. I could never get any sleep at night and would toss and tumble in my bed all night long. I had heard so much about Plant Juice that I decided, as a last resort, to see what it would do for me. To my great surprise, I got almost immediate relief, and now since I have taken it for several weeks I am feeling fine—completely cured. I can eat anything, sleep well and have not an ache or pain. My wife saw how much good it did me, so is taking it also with fine results. I consider the money I spent for Plant Juice the best I ever spent in my life, and we both join in praising it."

Plant Juice acts like magic in stomach trouble, gas, fermentation, heavy, distressed feeling after meals and on retiring. It attacks and destroys all poisons in the blood, corrects disease conditions of the liver and kidneys and restores them to normal condition. It banishes rheumation from the blood.

The Plant Juice Man is at The Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

SOLDIERS IN BIG NIGHT BATTLE

By BERT FORD.

Mesquite, N. M., Oct. 5.—Massachusetts cavalry and artillery were given their first taste of night maneuvering on the Mexican border by General Morton when his column of 20,000 National Guardsmen are advancing in Fort Selden, sixty-five miles from El Paso, on a fifteen-day hike.

The imaginary Red army, protected by the mountain range on the right of the militia army, caused in its flank movement to capture the Browns wagon train, massing for a frontal attack according to the make believe battle plans.

To thwart this sudden shift in strategy, General Morton ordered General Sweaz, commanding the troops from Tennessee, Kentucky and the Carolinas, to hurry from the camp at Anthony with a strong patrol of the gunners and horsemen from the Bay State and the Southern infantry.

The advance guard left in the glow of sunset for Webb's Gap. The infantry forces were kept on the alert to act should notice come that the patrol had been driven back but it was too well handled by General Speak.

HIKE ELEVEN MILES.

The Massachusetts brigade, commanded by General E. LeRoy Sweetser, and the "doughboys" from Ohio and Michigan marched as one main column to support the night scouts and to protect the supplies and equipment which were sent in a parallel column far for an old one in making milk along the opposite bank of the river. After a hike of eleven miles Mesquite was reached and camp made for the night.

The Massachusetts soldiers enjoyed a holiday in the lay-off at Anthony, just over the line from Texas.

They placed the camp on the site which was left so shark by the Pennsylvania forces on their four-day hike that a complaint was sent to headquarters. Old shoes, and shirts, and socks, and tin cans, and other litter were burned by the Bay State troops who have left all camps occupied more ship shape than they found them.

The boys make a human rake by advancing through camp in close formation and picking up even matches. When some infantrymen work elbow to elbow they literally sweep the landscape.

After house cleaning the men of the Fifth, Eighth and Ninth Regiments tramped through in companies over two miles of hot, dusty roads to the pony Rio Grande for a swim. The horses and mules were driven farther down stream and watered by the hundreds. The animals rolled over and doused attendants. It was a striking spectacle, that yellow river teaming with naked men and frisky animals.

CATCH 16 RABBITS.

In the afternoon the men hunted snakes and jack rabbits. Company F of the Eighth caught sixteen rabbits. The boys ran them down and had rabbit stew for supper. Last night the heavens were reddened by the camp fires that stretched for miles. Some companies built bonfires. The soldiers squatted around the flames, fed by sage and mesquite and sang, and cheered, and swapped stories.

Horses neigh and mules blat before daybreak and it is still dark when the buglers sound the first call and then the noises as well. One hears shouted orders, laughter and oaths. The mule chorus is weird. They make a noise that is a cross between a wheezy church organ and a whistling buoy. The Massachusetts boys admit that their profanity is weak compared to that of the troops south of the Mason and Dixon line when it comes to lecturing to army mules.

Reports that the Massachusetts troops will soon be sent home and the long hike played havoc with mails from home. Every mail bag is surrounded by hundreds clamoring for letters. Many of the boys have agreed not to shave during the fortnight hike and to send their pictures home.

JESS WILLARD TELLS SECRET OF HIS EASY VICTORY. ALSO REVEALS HITHERTO UNTOLD SECRET OF HIS GREAT TRIUMPH OVER JACK JOHNSON; SAYS IRON IS GREATEST OF ALL STRENGTH BUILDERS

Ordinary Nuxated Iron will often increase the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent. in two weeks' time.

SPECIAL NOTE—Dr. F. Sauer, a well-known physician, who has studied widely in both this country and Europe, has been specially employed to make a thorough investigation into the real secret of the great strength, power and endurance of Jess Willard, and the marvelous value of nuxated iron as a strength builder.

NEW YORK—Upon being interviewed at his apartments in the Colonial Hotel, Mr. Willard said, "Yes, I have a chemist with me to study the value of different foods and products as to their power to produce great strength and endurance, both of which are so necessary in the prize ring. On his recommendation I have often taken nuxated iron and I have particularly advocated the free use of iron by all those who wish to obtain great physical and mental power. Without it I am sure that I should never have been able to whip Jack Johnson so completely and easily as I did, and while training for my fight with Frank Moran I regularly took nuxated iron, and I am certain that it was a most important factor in my winning the fight so easily." Continuing, Dr. Sauer said: "Mr. Willard's case is only one of hundreds which I could cite from my own personal experience, which proves conclusively the astonishing power of nuxated iron to restore strength and vitality even in most complicated chronic conditions.

Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old, and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 21 and in full vigor, vim and vitality as a young man—in fact, a young man he really was, notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 70 he was in bad health; at 48 a wreck and nearly all in. Now at 50 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. Without it we would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more or less than a weakened condition, brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable the blood to carry food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking. Just like a plant trying to grow in soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents, but you must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.—Dr. Sauer, M. D.

Among all the prominent figures of the prize ring probably none is so devoted to family life as Jess Willard. After each engagement the champion hurries to his wife and children and remains at their side until public demand forces him to leave for new encounters. Everything he does is done to bring up the "little Willards" with strong healthy bodies. Mr. Willard accounts for his own success by saying:—

"I consider that plenty of iron in my blood is the secret of my great strength power and endurance."

Jess Willard

NOTE—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians in this country. Unlike the old forms of iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron in their blood, and increase it 200 per cent. or even in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

DEBT DENIED BY MRS. GERAGHTY

Mrs. "Jack" Geraghty, the Newport society girl whose elopement with a garage owner several years ago stirred society circles, today denied owing money to a Boston department store when questioned concerning the proceedings instituted by Sheriff Joseph Buck to sell the Geraghty home at Woburn to satisfy a judgment secured by the store on the account, which, with court costs, amounts to $100.

Mrs. Geraghty entered her denial while sitting beside her husband, with their baby on her knee, in an automobile outside the home, which, according to notice posted by Sheriff Buck in Woburn, Stoneham and Winchester, will be sold November 4.

"Jack" was the first to speak to an AMERICAN reporter.

"To whose store do we owe money?" he demanded.

DENIES DEBT.

"I don't know who it can be," answered Mrs. "Jack." "We don't owe any bill to any Boston store."

"It is true our home is for sale," she went on, "but we haven't sold it yet, and won't unless we get the offer we want. This is being handled for us by a real estate firm in Boston."

Geraghty refused to make any statement as to whether he had been served with foreclosure papers by the sheriff.

"We've said all we care to say about that affair," he said.

REPORT RECONCILIATION.

It has been reported that a reconciliation has been effected between "Jack" Geraghty and Mrs. Geraghty's mother, Mrs. Amos Tuck French, one of Newport's "400." Asked concerning this Mrs. "Jack" said:

"I have also read in the papers that we are going to build an $8,000 home in Newport. I don't know how these stories get about, but they are all bosh."

"Goodby," and with a sweet smile Mrs. "Jack" sped away.

TOW SPERRY'S PLANE TO MARBLEHEAD

Lawrence Sperry's hydro-areoplane, which has figured in so many thrilling adventures during the last few days, was placed on a lighter today and towed to Marblehead, where necessary repairs will be made. Sperry said today that he planned to fly back to New York Saturday or Sunday.

HAPPENINGS IN SOCIETY

Miss Dorothy Dewey to Be Bride of Alexander Barr Comstock.

PHOTOGRAPH BY WHITE, BOSTON

Miss Dorothy Dewey, daughter of Professor Davis Rich Dewey.

A Winter wedding, it has been announced, will follow the engagement of Miss Dorothy Dewey, daughter of Professor Davis Rich Dewey of Technology, and Alexander Barr Comstock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Young Comstock of Brookline. Miss Dewey is a Radcliffe graduate and Mr. Comstock graduated at the Harvard Law School in 1910.

Congratulations were tendered by many friends of the young couple at a reception at the College Clubs. Mr. Comstock is now a lawyer with offices at No. 84 State street.

A large reception and a collation was given this afternoon by the Harvard Woman's Club at the Vendome. This is the first gathering of its members for the new season of 1916-'17 and was a delightful affair. Byron Reed was the guest of honor and entertained the club with a talk on "The Music of the Philippines." According to custom the club's meetings will be held at the Vendome throughout the Winter.

* * *

Miss Margaret Howet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. J. Hewat of North Adams, and James Tucker Hunter will be married this evening in the Briggsville Church, North Adams.

The presentation this Winter of Miss Elsie Quincy Nichols, daughter of Mrs. Henry G. Nichols of No. 382 Commonwealth avenue, is interesting her large acquaintance and connections in Boston society. Miss Nichols' sister, Mrs. Robert Gilpin Ervin, was Frances Nichols and is now living in Philadelphia. She made her debut in 1910 and was a member of the Sewing Circle of that year.

* * *

Miss Susan D. Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Lee of Chestnut Hill, is another of the season's debutantes whose coming out parties will be of unusual interest. Miss Lee's sisters are Miss Mary Lee and Miss Isabella Lee. They make their Summer home at Westport, New York.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR, THICK, WAVY, FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Draw a moist cloth through hair and double its beauty at once.

Save your hair! Dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after an application of Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, charming, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.—Advertisement.

YOU'RE BILIOUS! CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS TONIGHT

Don't stay headachy, sick, or have bad breath and sour stomach.

Wake up feeling fine! Best laxative for men, women and children.

Enjoy life! Remove the liver and bowel poison which causes that awful head dizzy, tongue coated, breath offensive, and stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy, constipated and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug store and eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or sicken like salts, pills and calomel. They act so gently that you hardly realize you have taken a cathartic. Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious or feverish children a whole Cascaret any time—they act thoroughly and are harmless.—Advertisement.

GOLDSTEIN RAPS WOMAN'S CLUB

In a letter to the officers and members of the Woman's City Club, David Goldstein, lecturer and secretary of the Boston School of Political Economy, censures the club for allowing Professor Zueblin to advocate birth control at its banquet Monday night.

Mr. Goldstein also reproaches the members for their applause of the remarks in favor of Van Kleek Allison, now on bail pending a hearing on his appeal of a three-year sentence for distributing birth control literature to young girls.

Mr. Goldstein says:

"Is it possible that the Woman's City Club has become the vehicle for the propaganda of birth control? In such related an untoward event surely the club was certain of losing all its respectable members. Besides, the general public is concerned.

"Are the citizens of Boston to conclude that the philosophical sentiment of a Zueblin is the philosophy that dominates the opinions held at the Woman's City Club? Is it the purpose of the club to advocate such attitudes of mind?"

GRAND DUKE GOING TO DOBRUDJA

By SIDNEY B. CAVE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Oct. 5.—That the allies plan a great effort to cut through Bulgaria thus linking up the Russo-Rumanian forces with the allied army in Macedonia is indicated in dispatches received here today.

Advices from Petrograd by way of Stockholm state that Grand Duke Nicholas, former commander-in-chief of the Russian troops in eastern front, is being sent to Dobrudja to command the Rumanian and Russian armies operating there. These armies have been organized on a highly powerful scale. They have checked the advance of the German allies under Field Marshal von Mackensen and compelled them to retreat, winning back ground that had been overrun in the first flush of the invasion of Rumanian soil.

With the lines of communication endangered by the Rumanian army that invaded Bulgarian by way of the Danube, Von Mackensen struck back with a powerful blow, compelling the Rumanians to retire temporarily.

It is understood here that the Rumanian force which set foot on Bulgarian soil was not large. Consequently when it was attacked by superior numbers it was compelled to retreat.

Severe fighting is in progress all along the line in Dobrudja. This is expected to become even more violent when Grand Duke Nicholas arrives there. The Grand Duke is now reported to be on his way to Odessa. From there he will go to Kiev for a council of war before proceeding to Dobrudja.

The Grand Duke was in command on the eastern front when Von Mackensen launched his big drive in 1915 and his masterly tactics prevented the Germans from cutting off and capturing big sections of the Russian army in Poland and Galicia.

VON TIRPITZ SPURNS REICHSTAG PLACE

By International News Service.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—Admiral von Tirpitz, formerly head of the German admiralty, was offered the conservative nomination for a Reichstag seat vacancy to be filled at a by-election in Saxony. He declined, replying that he had reached a decision, in the interest of Germany, cause to accept no candidacy during the war.

WAR SUMMARY

The most interesting war theatre is the Dobrudja, but again today there is a dearth of clear information from that region.

Concerning the battle line from the Danube to the Black Sea, we know this much: that its western end rests on the Danube near Rasova, where it has been for some three weeks or so; that its centre is at Cobadinu, where it has been for three weeks or so. Petrograd reports Russian gunboats in the Danube at Rasova, and tells of fighting at Cobadinu. These two points were the left flank and the centre of the furthest Teutonic advance, so that the Teutons have held their ground there, if not on the whole line. Concerning the rest of the line, from Cobadinu to the sea, there is doubt; but one thing is certain, that if it had been pushed far back, Cobadinu would have been evacuated. Some success on this wing of the line is claimed by Rumania.

In general then, the Teutonic defensive here seems to be thus far successful.

Concerning the Rumanian force which crossed the Danube, the situation is obscure. Rumania does not mention it. Neither does Petrograd. Bulgaria says the enemy crossed on a pontoon bridge, which Austrian monitors then destroyed. Berlin says an encircling attack forced the Rumanian troops into flight. Where they fled does not appear.

An interesting possibility develops from the fact that there are Austrian monitors in the Danube at Tutrakan, and Russian gunboats at Rasova. Naval warfare in the Danube is not impossible.

The hardest fighting of the day was on the Russian front, west of Lutsk. Lacking munitions, the Russians appear to have attempted to break through by sheer weight of men, and without sufficient artillery support. The Russian bulletin is reticent as to the results of this fighting. Nothing is claimed by them. Berlin and Vienna say Russian attacks were repulsed with losses even heavier than usual on that bloody battleground.

The Somme front was relatively quiet. There are some signs here of a stiffening of the German defence; but it is probable this is either because the allies are not trying to advance, or because the allies are slackening their drive here to open a new one elsewhere.

ENGLAND PLANS TO DRAFT IRISH

London, Oct. 5.—A plan to force conscription in Ireland to supply men needed in the British ranks is under way and will confront the government when Parliament reassembles next week. As a result of the present agitation, there is raised the threat of another grave crisis in the Irish problem.

It is declared that the government will find it hard to resist the demand for Irish conscription. Recently the Times and other newspapers have been conducting a strong campaign with this object in view, and the declarations announced by the Man Power Distribution Board and by General Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial staff, that more men are urgently needed, will, it is believed, strengthen the hands of the agitators, who have now been joined by Sir Edward Carson.

Sir Edward asserts that the situation is such that without conscription in Ireland it will be impossible to even maintain the Irish regiments now at the front in their proper strength. He contends that Ireland could provide another half million men of military age.

The Nationalists in reply declare that Ireland will be found to be a united nation in resistance to compulsion. Liberals say the new plan may throw all Ireland into the hands of the revolutionary party.

Great Britain is in urgent need of men for her armies and also for her munition factories, a statement to this effect has been given out by the Man Power Distribution Board.

Jews Condemn English Draft

New York, Oct. 5.—A protest against the enactment of legislation pending before the British Parliament, designed to compel military service by non-citizen Jews in England, with the alternative of deportation, was launched in Cooper Union.

The proposal that non-citizen Jews serve Great Britain was made recently to the House of Commons by Sir Herbert Samuels, the Home Secretary. It will again be brought before the House next Monday.

"Protest now, before it is too late," Dr. Henry Moskowitz urged President Wilson.

It was pointed out to the several thousand who crowded the old meeting hall, that if England passes the measure, Jews of Russia and Rumania, who fled their countries for many reasons, will be forced back to those countries, if they don't serve on the battlefields.

Russia and Rumania, the speakers charged, are behind the measure. They want to regain hold on political refugees.

"If, as the supporters of the measure in England argue," asked Dr. Moskowitz, "that foreign Jews are earning their living in England, and they must therefore fight for that country, why do they not conscript Americans, Dutch, Scandinavians and other neutrals who are making a living there?"

Congressman Meyer London was not inclined to put the blame for the proposed legislation on "normal England." "Insanity, which is spreading over Europe," he said, was the cause.

"England," he said, "has wiped out every principle of international law. The war is not being waged now against armies, but against peaceful and defenceless people."

U. S. Envoy Sets Dobrudja Horror Victims at 60,000

By International News Service.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—The Sofia correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung has just submitted a report of the investigation of Rumanian atrocities in the Dobrudja, conducted by United States Charge d'Affaires Warfield and several newspaper correspondents.

Conditions in the towns of Dobritch, Bait Hrik, Silistria and the surrounding country were investigated. The correspondent writes:

"We saw everywhere on our trip, in the towns and in the country, that the inhabitants were terror-stricken by these atrocities. Everywhere we followed the trail of incendiarism and everywhere we heard the same complaint of loss of life and property.

"All former reports regarding atrocities without exception, were proved to be correct by our investigation.

"One entire village was destroyed by fire and large quantities of corn belonging to people of all classes was carried away, partly by force and partly by the use of false promises. Men of all stations in life were arrested haphazard on the streets and shot. The girls were taken to the Rumanian trenches where they first were attacked and then murdered. This was especially true of the neighborhood of Silistria.

"Children and women were locked up in houses and then either burned or shot. It has been proved that the Rumanians ravaged the country in an indescribable manner on direct orders of their superiors.

"In the Dobrudja, in a former railroad building, we saw traces of the massacre. On one day sixty men were imprisoned, all of whom had been arrested on the streets. All were shot on the following day.

"In the hospitals of Dobritch we met many severely wounded civilians who gave us details of the massacres. The number of killed, wounded and exiled civilian inhabitants of the Dobrudja will reach about 60,000. Up to September 30 in the Dobritch country alone, 2,500 people in sixty-nine villages were registered as missing."

SAY ALLIES LOST 700,000 ON SOMME

Berlin, Oct. 5.—Major Moraht, the famous military critic, in a review of the present military situation, says:

"The successes of the Anglo-French army of millions which, since July 1, has sent ninety divisions into battle, have temporarily made our enemies a bit helpless. They recaptured about three-tenths of 1 per cent. of the territory occupied by the Germans in France. They paid for the conquest of Combles, some other villages and six hamlets with casualties aggregating 700,000 to 800,000."

Referring to David Lloyd-George's public boast that "Russia will fight until the death," Major Moraht adduces figures in support of his contention that the Russian casualties since the launching of their Summer offensive in all the Eastern battle fronts total the staggering figure of a million officers and men.

This does not include their recent heavy losses in the Transylvanian Alps, Dobrudja, Armenia and Persia.

Tells a Secret

Manufacturer of Famous Medicine Tells Ingredients, So Public Can Appreciate Pure, Reliable Medicine.

Many people fear to take medicine to check and abort colds, cure coughs, catarrh, etc. This fear is groundless with all the products of The Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, Ohio. Not one contains opiates, narcotics or harmful drugs. Mentho-Laxene, for coughs, colds, catarrh and all distress following a cold, is a compound of Wild Cherry, Tolu, Cascara, Grindelia, Menthol, Ammonium Chloride, and alcohol sufficient to preserve and keep in solution.

Every ingredient is in concentrated form and the medicine is so strong that only ten-drop doses are to be taken in the "raw" state. But the ideal way is to make into a syrup by emptying a 2½-oz. bottle of Mentho-Laxene into a pint bottle and then fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made by dissolving a pint of sugar in a half pint of boiling water. It is said by thousands that this makes a most effective home treatment for all cold troubles. The manufacturer guarantees it to please or money back. Sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Instant Hair Stain Better Than Slow "Restorers"

Some folks wonder how you injure the hair, scalp, skin, etc., by the use of our perfumed cocoanut oil shampoo. Our "Restorer" is a color to gray, streaked or faded hair, without scalding it. No such preparation has ever been discovered.

There is only one preparation on file we know that is entirely free from sulphur, lead, silver, mercury, zinc, sulfites, coal tar products or their derivatives. That preparation is called "Brownatone." It is so easy and safe to apply that the wonder is that anyone ever uses anything else.

"Brownatone" instantly tints the hair to any shade of brown (or black) that may be desired. If the gray shows on your temples or is streaking your hair—if the ends of your hair are lighter than the balance, or if for any reason you wish to stain all or part of your hair—use "Brownatone."

A sample and a booklet will be sent you from manufacturers only upon receipt of 10c. Mention shade desired.

All of the leading drug stores sell "Brownatone." Two sizes, 25c and $1.00.

Insist on "Brownatone" at your hairdresser's.

FANS CLAMOR FOR PROBE OF M'GRAW'S CHARGES IN BIG BASEBALL SCANDAL

lated it today, swallowed hard and said:

"McGraw should be hailed before the National Commission, and if it can be proved that he impugned the honesty of baseball he should be driven out of the game. There is no punishment too severe for a man who would cast discredit and cause the finger of suspicion to be pointed at the sport, which is an American institution."

"POOR LOSER."

Chief Myers, the swarthy centre-fielder of the Dodgers, said:

McGraw is running true to form. It isn't the first time that he squealed like a stuck pig when his team lost. He made the same statement over in Philly once when the Quakers beat us. It looks to me like a weak attempt to rob a team of the credit of winning a hard-fought battle. It is the hoarse cry of a poor loser."

Rube Marquard, who is having a rest, preparatory to being called to pitch the opening series game for the Dodgers here Saturday, expressed himself in three heart-felt words:

Well, he did it, all right. He is showing his real colors now. We beat his ball club, beat it fairly, and he can't stand the licking. The National Commission ought to take up his case and handle him without gloves.

McGraw's own men grow purple likewise when they talk over their manager's acid remarks about their playing. Perritt, whom McGraw named in his statement Tuesday night, has given the lie direct to McGraw's words. So has Fletcher.

New statements by other Giants include the following:

George Burns—I can't honestly believe that "Mack" said the things which were printed. If he did, it was unfair to the team. We did our best, fought hard, but we couldn't win. We feel badly over the affair, and the only thing we can think is that he said the things in the heat of anger.

Hans Lobert—The whole thing is beyond me. I have been in the big league for a long time and I never saw a team quit. I know we didn't quit. I feel very badly over this. It is not fair to the players.

Fred Anderson: "I don't know that McGraw said anything, but if he thinks the boys deserted him he is mistaken. We did our best and lost. That's all I can say."

Lew McCarthy: "The proposition that we quit is preposterous. The Giants did their best and couldn't win. I heard the talk on the bench and I know that they were in to win."

McGRAW MAY QUIT.

There was gossip in Manhattan today that this may mean McGraw's finish with the Giants. One report was that Buck Herzog, the crafty second-sacker, may manage the Giants next year.

Another report was that McGraw go to Chicago to manage the White Sox. That move would, of course, switch McGraw over to the American League. Ban Johnson, president of the American League, has been denouncing McGraw's accusations against his men as an "outrage," but many fans believe that Johnson would be tickled to death to have the peppery McGraw managing an American League team.

Manager George T. Stallings of the Boston Braves, who left Philadelphia yesterday for his home in Georgia, said before quitting the Quaker City that it was ridiculous to think of any of the Giants being anything but "on the level." Stallings said:

"Any club that has won twenty-six consecutive victories must not only have great inherent strength, but must have all the breaks of the game coming its way. Both these things the New York club had and with them was a great and wonderful incentive to win; but when this winning streak was interrupted by the Boston Braves last Saturday in New York, then followed a relaxation of their fighting spirit and the breaks of the game in Brooklyn went against them.

"The public has grown so certain of victory for the Giants that it failed to understand what this relaxation and the adverse breaks meant, and when a particularly bad break in the Tuesday's game went against the Giants, some people were only too willing to cry 'fake.'

"Shortly after the opening of the season the Giants had a winning streak of seventeen games, and when that streak was broken they suffered almost as many consecutive defeats.

ON THE LEVEL.

"Baseball is absolutely on the level, and no one has had more to do with placing it on its present high plane than the players themselves.

"I have known the majority of the New York players for a number of years, and it is ridiculous to think that these high-class players are anything but on the level.

"Brooklyn has been the most consistent hitting club all season and deserved to win."

The National Baseball Commission is due in Boston late this afternoon or this evening, and is scheduled for a session tomorrow.

What the National Commission proposes to do in regard to the McGraw charges interests Boston fans mightily.

So far there is little encouragement from the magnate themselves that they propose to do anything as the National Commission. Even Ban Johnson, president of the American League, shouts "outrage," but in the same breath allows that it is a matter purely for the National League to handle.

BAN IS EMPHATIC.

"Personally," said Ban, "I think it is an outrage. Had it occurred in the American League there would have been ——— to pay."

"But will the National Commission take it up?" he was asked flatly.

"That is a question for the National League to handle," said Johnson. "If the National League is not big enough to settle it, it should go out of business."

John K. Tener, president of the National League, sidestepped the issue again today. Before leaving Stallings stated that McGraw made a hasty move when he publicly gave it out that his team played indifferent ball in the Brooklyn series.

THE MAN WHO WAITS FOR LUCK IS ALWAYS BEATEN BY THE MAN WHO GRASPS OPPORTUNITY

30,000 Coming to Town
Hotels Filling Up Fast

The greatest number of out-of-town guests at Boston hotels in the history of the city will invade the Hub Saturday for the World's Series opening, it was forecast by Boston hotel men today.

Thousands of reservations poured into the hotels by mail, telegraph and telephone today. The hotel men estimate there will be from 25,000 to 30,000 persons seeking accommodations Saturday.

They declare that indications are that thousands will be unable to be accommodated, despite the fact that at every hotel and semi-hotel in the city, every cot, mattress and blanket will be utilized for the slumbers of the fans.

HOTELS FILLING UP.

Fans who arrive late and have not engaged accommodation in advance will have an arduous time finding places to sleep, it was freely predicted today. Everything indicates that after the first big game on Saturday there will be thousands of out-of-town baseball rooters frantically searching for a place to sleep, and unable to find one, except out of doors.

Many Boston hotels are already filled almost to overflowing by an influx of visitors to the Brockton Fair, many of whom spend their nights in Boston. A great proportion of these have reserved their rooms until Saturday and Sunday, which has added to the problem Boston hotel managers face in seeking to accommodate the horde of fans that will jam the city for the opening game.

"There will be more than 25,000 out-of-town residents seeking accommodation at Boston hotels for the World Series," said G. R. Hall of the Adams Hotel today. "There is an unusually large number of visitors in the city right now and when the World Series crowd gets here the hotels won't be able to take care of them all.

"We are putting extra cots up all over the hotel, in preparation for the jam. Wherever it is possible, guests will be doubled up and in many cases three or four will be crowded into one room.

TO SLEEP ON COTS.

"Every bit of spare space where we can put cots and spare beds with safety will be utilized. But it's a certainty that the hotels and apartment-hotels won't be able to accommodate the number of fans which present indications show will be here."

The closeness of the races in the two leagues and the increased and widespread interest they have created are declared responsible for the record-breaking crowds expected at the games.

A tremendous jam is expected in the restaurants and cafes in Boston during the games. The city was being scoured today for extra waiters and cooks and other restaurant employes in demand at the hotels and restaurants to take care of the feeding of the horde of fans.

Numerous other lines of business were feeling the activity of preparations for the big invasion.

The downtown hotels began to take on an air of bustle in preparation for the approaching big series today, and on State street and the sidewalk opposite the Adams House and Clark's Hotel the bookmakers show increased activity.

"The odds on the opening game will be 10 to 7 in Boston's favor," said a well-known betting man today. "Brooklyn can be expected to have their best pitcher in for this game, and if the Red Sox win the odds on any of the later games will be 10 to 6 in their favor.

"Of course the pitchers make the odds to a large extent on the individual games, but any way you look at it the Red Sox are going to be prime favorites to win every game and the series. Most of the betting will be on the series."

The activity of the hotels in preparation for the World Series spread to the employment agencies which specialize in the supply of cooks and waiters. There is a big demand for waiters and other restaurant help, and scores of restaurant workers are being imported from neighboring cities.

COME FROM FAR WEST.

The reservations pouring into the hotels are coming from all parts of the country. Thousands are already in from Brooklyn and New York, many of them well known in business, professional and political circles there.

Fans in Cleveland, Chicago, Kansas City and other distant points were among those besieging the hotels by telegraph for rooms.

One telegram from Los Angeles, Cal., was received several days ago by the Touraine Hotel reserving rooms for a party of three who will attend the series.

Every boarding house owner in the Back Bay and South End of the city is expecting to reap his proportionate reward from the invasion of fans. If it were not for the accommodations that can be supplied by the semi-hotels and apartment houses in the Back Bay, hotel men declare the number of visitors unable to find places to sleep would be tremendous.

Yale Ready for Virginia Game

New Haven, Oct. 5.—After battling with the scrubs for fifteen minutes, the Yale varsity proved unequal to the task of going over the goal line for a touchdown.

Several of the regulars were excused from scrimmaging, and Redfield was at right end, Durfee at left guard, Ross at centre and Neville and Jacques at halfback.

As Yale expects a strenuous game with Virginia on Saturday, scrimmage practice for the week will close today. Captain Black will be at left guard, Head Coach Jones announced today.

J. M. Braden, former Washington & Jefferson halfback and drop-kicker, has made up his conditions in studies and is eligible to play for the Blue this Fall.

CREW MAN RECOVERS FROM PLAGUE ATTACK

Horace A. Quimby, '18, who rowed at No. 7 in the Harvard varsity crew last Spring against Yale, and who was stricken several weeks ago with infantile paralysis, expects to resume his work at Harvard, starting the second seminar.

Quimby is at present at his home in Springfield. Both of his legs are affected by the disease. He is expected to be able to get about very soon, with the aid of crutches. Quimby was one of the Crimson's best oarsmen.

WILBERT ROBINSON ADDED TO AMERICAN'S SPORT STAFF

Score another HOME RUN for the Boston AMERICAN.

WILBERT ROBINSON, manager of the Brooklyn National League Champions, has been signed up to cover the World's Series.

This gives the Boston AMERICAN the greatest collection of stars ever gathered on any newspaper event.

Here are the other men who will give the readers of the Boston AMERICAN the best stories of the day on the big series for the world's championship:

"BILL" CARRIGAN, manager of world's champion Red Sox, will tell the "inside" story of how the games are played.

HUGH FULLERTON, famous baseball statistician, will "figure" the games for the fans.

TAD—The Cartoonist—nuf ced.

DAMON RUNYON, the great descriptive writer, will tell what happened and how it happened.

K. C. B., conductor of one of the most original and entertaining feature columns, will write of fans and ball players and the by-products of the series.

FRANK G. MENKE, sporting editor of the I. N. S., will write sidelights and tell how the runs were made.

BRUNO LESSING, famous short story writer, will strike the "human note."

And there are others.

PLAYING THE WORLD'S SERIES WITH HUGH S FULLERTON

This is the eleventh of a series of expert articles on the World's Series games by Hugh S. Fullerton, the celebrated baseball statistician, in which he discusses the qualifications of the managers who will oppose each other in the great title clashes. As the managers play an important role in deciding World's Series battles, Mr. Fullerton has devoted two articles to this department of the coming championship clashes.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

There is something beyond mechanical ability to play ball that makes a baseball team. It is a saying in the Big Leagues that a bad manager can ruin a good ball club, but that a good manager cannot make a bad club win. This is true only in a sense. The manager, of course, is held responsible for what happens to his team. But, in a few cases, is he really responsible.

There are two parts to managing a ball team; first, the manager must be a diplomat, an expert in handling men, and must be able to get the assortment of human beings intrusted to his care to work together. It is about as easy to induce twenty-five abnormally healthy ball players to work in harmony as it is to drive twenty-five calves along a country road.

Ball players are peculiar beings. First they are caught young, as a rule; second, they are spoiled by overmuch praise if they make good; third, they have about twenty-two hours a day to think about themselves and their troubles, to nurse grievances, and to develop peculiar turns of mind.

They are not different from other human beings—in fact I think twenty-five ball players are much more restrained in conduct and decent in behavior than almost any twenty-five men you could select would be under the same surroundings. The game teaches them restraint and respect for the rights of others to some degree.

TEAM WORK AIDS LEADERS.

But a manager with twenty-five of these fellows on his hands has his job cut out for him to handle them all, using usually twenty-five different methods. After he gets them together and has them ready to work for the club instead of for themselves, the thing we call "team spirit" develops. It is team spirit that makes or breaks a ball club, for team spirit is readiness to sacrifice one's self for the success of the machine, willingness to help one another, and to work hard for your manager.

After a manager has done this, he is only half way to success. He must then be able to handle owners and stockholders and to prevent them from butting into the playing end of the club instead of attending to the box office part of the game. This frequently is harder than handling the players. There are some clubs that have been for years held back in the second division and a way from pennant honors only because the owners insist upon "helping" their team leaders.

MUST BE BASEBALL GENIUS.

If the manager succeeds in these points, he still must have a genius to lead—be a general knowing all points of the actual playing of the game. Many of the best field generals, who know baseball inside out, cannot manage teams successfully because they cannot handle men. Many fellows who can handle men successfully do not know enough about the playing end of the game.

From these observations, it is easy to see that a manager exerts a tremendous influence upon the work and showing of a team. In figuring the worth of players in each position, I have calculated not only their ability to field, bat and throw, but have also calculated how much influence for good or bad their manager has had upon them.

That is I merely divided the "team spirit" value and apportioned it in proportionate quantities to the nine positions. I know of no other way of doing it unless we figure the exact mechanical worth of each player and then calculate the managers separately and add their influence to the team total. I think my way is the most expressive at least.

CARRIGAN IS HARD WORKER.

The managers who lead the teams that are to battle for world's championship honors are of different types, and each has exerted his influence upon his team. It is odd the manner in which the personality of a real manager is reflected in the playing, in the actions, both on and off, of his men. If they are not, then the manager is a failure and team spirit is lacking entirely.

To-morrow's article I intend to compare the work of Bill Carrigan and Wilbert Robinson. But I might state here that they are managers of different types and worthy of close study from baseball enthusiasts.

In passing I will say that Carrigan is a hard worker, while Robinson is a quitter.

BRAVES CANNOT CLIMB

Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—The deposed champion Phillies fought a see-saw battle with the Braves for second place in the National League standings. They had the satisfaction of winning the position from the team which yesterday spilled Philadelphia pennant hopes. The score was 7-5.

Moran used three pitchers to drag the game out of the fire. Demaree got into hot water in the fifth, after the Phillies had taken the lead in the first inning, and gave way to Kantlehner. Boston scored four runs in this session, taking the lead.

Philadelphia rallied in the sixth and put across three runs. Cooper, who batted for Kantlehner, singled and Paskert got a triple, while the cannonading was on. The Braves and Phillies close the season today.

Carrigan in Brooklyn
Dutch and Shore Along

New York, Oct. 5.—Bill Carrigan, Red Sox leader, and Ernie Shore and "Dutch" Leonard, two of Boston's famous pitchers, came down to New York yesterday to watch the Dodgers in their game against the Giants.

Manager Robinson fooled the Boston trio by playing many of his youngsters in place of the veterans.

Consequently the McGraw-less Giants had no trouble in winning. They beat the youngsters, 7-3, and rolled up fourteen safe blows off Larry Cheney and Leon Cadore, a rookie from the Montreal (International League) club. Robbie used only three regulars at the beginning of the game. Cheney was one, H. Myers another and Johnston the third. Sallee held the Brooklyns to seven hits.

Zach Wheat, the Dodgers' slugging left fielder, had a finger split on his right hand and retired. He may miss the opening games in Boston, though Robinson is hopeful Zach will be able to get in the lineup.

Red Sox in Charity Game at Worcester

This morning Bill Carrigan and some of the athletes who will represent Boston in the World's Series left town for a short exhibition trip to Worcester. Numbered among those whom Manager Bill took up to the Heart of the Commonwealth are some who will get into the big clash and a number of others who may not get a chance for a position in baseball's hall of fame.

Connie Mack arranged today's pilgrimage out of respect to the memory of his old friend John H. Gaffney, an indicator man in the National League some years ago when a number of the present-day fans were in swaddling clothes. Friends of the late umpire plan a memorial to him, and it is for the purpose of enriching this fund that today's game is played.

The club has had what will perhaps be its last practice session before the day of the big clash itself. Yesterday afternoon they were at Braves Field for hitting and fielding practice. The session was brief, but withal full of pep and ginger. Bill had much to say to the men regarding the games they enter with the Robins. Those who don't know about Rube Marquard's record considerable regarding the wry-necked left-handed's ability.

Brooklyn Hurlers Best Pfeffer Ranks First

By FRANK G. MENKE,
Sporting Editor International News Service.

New York, Oct. 5.—The surprising fact that the Dodgers' hurling staff out-hurled those of the Red Sox is revealed in today's perusal of the pitching averages.

Look at it from any angle that you wish, and you'll find that three Dodger stars—Pfeffer, Cheney and Marquard—outrank in the percentage table, the Ruth-Shore-Foster or Leonard combination of Boston

Also the five Dodger regulars—Pfeffer, Marquard, Cheney, Smith and Coombs—are pitching nine points beyond the grand average of Ruth, Shore, Foster, Leonard and Mays.

Ranking the pitchers in the order of games won and lost Pfeffer, with .838, tops the entire staffs from both squads. Marquard is a nose behind with .833. Ruth is third with .667, Shore fourth with .654 and Cheney fifth with .647. So the Dodgers in addition to having the two best averages in numbers, also have three in the first five.

The choosers are that three pitchers on each team will carry the defensive burden in the World's Series battling. That will be Pfeffer, Marquard and Cheney for the Dodgers, with a grand pitching average of .672 against Ruth, Shore and Foster (or Leonard), with a great pitching average of .715—or best if Leonard works instead of Foster.

CHENEY MOST CONSISTENT.

In the point of effectiveness, the two squads—figuring five men are tied with an average yield of 3.2 hits per game of the entire group Cheney has been the most consistent, his pitching only 4.3 hits per game, against 4.5 for Marquard, who is second, and 4.9 for Mays, the lone hurler of the Sox.

In the matter of bases on balls Ruth is the wildest of the lot. He has walked 118 men in 44 games. Cheney, the wildest of the Dodger pitchers, walked 107 men in 40 games. The steadiest hurler of the group of ten was strange as it may seem, the so-called eccentric Marquard. In 36 games he issued only 35 passes. The next best record in the line of steadiness was turned in by Foster, who walked 147 men in 58 games.

Cheney, with 16, strikes out 49 games, leads in the matter of strikeouts. Ruth also struck out 165 men but he worked in 44 games. Leonard strikes out 113 men in 58 games and Pfeffer with 147 fan credits in 42 games, ranks fourth.

RECORDS OF STAR TEN.

Here are the records of the Ruth-Dodger ten (Leonard going with Boston) showing games pitched, won, lost, percentage, earned run average and games finished per 9 innings:

BROOKLINE BOY IS PICK.

Worcester, Oct. 5.—Richard L. Ayer, a veteran of Brookline High school and captain of the Worcester Academy football team of last year, has been elected captain of the Worcester Academy football team for the season of 1916. Ayer is a graduate of Brookline High school and is a brother of Fred Ayer, the Harvard football star.

FILLIE'S BROTHER COMING WITH THE JINX

Bristol, Tenn., Oct. 5.—W. S. Walker of Limestone, Tenn., a brother of "Fillie" Walker, Red Sox centre fielder, is headed toward Boston with a jinx. Said jinx is intended for Brooklyn's Dodgers.

"I have witnessed a great many games in which my brother participated," said Walker, "and I have never seen the opposing side win. When "Fillie" was with the Washington club, I paid him a visit of two weeks and incidentally Washington won 12 straight games, and if there is really such a thing as a jinx, Boston will win four straight, as I'm going to be there from the beginning to the finish."

"When a Man Marries"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1916, by International News Service.

THE FRIVOLOUS GIRL

HE ALWAYS HUMORS THE FRIVOLOUS GIRL—

THE INTENSE GIRL

HE TANGLES HIMSELF IN ALL KINDS OF TROUBLE WITH THE GIRL OF INTENSE FEELING—

THE WIFE-AND-MOTHER GIRL

BUT HE CHOOSES THE GIRL WHO WOULD MAKE A GOOD MOTHER

I LOOK from my high open window across a great valley to the dreaming, misty hills that lie lightly under a noon sun in Southern California. Looking there, I don't think of girls and men and their puzzles. But in my hand I have a letter, blue and scented, and dashed [illegible] the [illegible] that [illegible] and [illegible] chatting dreams that quiver on the far hills like the music of little pipes from a [illegible] remember [illegible] the brown eyes and hair and [illegible], remember your history and think—and understand man and be happy. In the big family of nations there [illegible] civilization, finished [illegible] and intricate-thinking girls, and when you follow [illegible] in their thinking [illegible] and climbs [illegible] and confuse you in its gypsy route, until at last you reach the goal—the conclusion.

Then there are savage, childlike nations, new and direct, who run straight as a finger may point to the same desire—the same end. Here think of man and woman. He puts out a hand and says, short off—this is what I want! And this five, ultra-intricate, thinks over a torturous trail that leads you against the sun, and into the black heart of the earth—but all the same she comes panting along to the same journey's end. This is all fairly true, wrong analysis, in all the choosing of a mate.

So, says the man who knows, holding up a finger to mark time, "A man may trifle with the frivolous girl, he may get himself meshed in a tangle with the girl of intense feeling; but if he is the right kind of a man he will marry in the end the girl whom savage and direct instinct tells him will mother splendid children and know how to care for them. And sometimes that means a mighty plain face!"

Here is an answer to your letter, Mademoiselle "I WONDER."

But here—thankful I am—is a precious lifebelt for us all—we feminines. A powder-puff and curling hair, and a snubby nose, doesn't always mean a FRIVOLOUS girl. Jades and tremendous gloomy eyes and a TENDER voice doesn't always mean the INTENSE. And a plain face doesn't ALWAYS mean a Madonna heart. But it looks that way in a picture. So

WHICH led to Wilton Inn a pretty girl was trudging wearily. She wished she had the strength of character to put her faith in Bert Kerrigan and to take Beatrice Fairfax's attitude toward anonymous letters.

She wished that she could forget [illegible] trudge back much toward home. She wished desperately for some miracle of faith to convince her before she went on an errand that she trusted would convince her of her own folly. She wanted desperately to go back—but she went on.

At last she came to a dingy building with that air of aloofness from the concerns of man which deserted houses often show. This, as the grimy sign hanging over the tumble-down steps of the [illegible] declared, was the [illegible]

There was no sign of any human presence, and Rita again told herself that Bert was vindicated and that she must go home. But she [illegible] herself:

"I'll just creep up the steps, timidly, she pushed open the rickety door, and with growing fear of she knew not what, she entered [illegible] front hall [illegible]

There seemed to be no one about, and she was ready to make [illegible] and hasten home [illegible]

Rita's Rival

All Rita's jealousy flamed again into new life. The letter had told [illegible] and him was another girl—the girl who had caused him to [illegible]

Rita felt that this was more than she need be asked to endure. She would go and face them both. After that anything horrible [illegible] be going to happen. It didn't matter what!

Pictures in the sun [illegible] were waiting for what they felt sure must be going to happen. They heard the girl enter. Then silence told them of her hesitancy, and finally her steps could be [illegible] up the stairs.

One of them hurried into the room at the stairway's head and one crept over to a closet which [illegible]

Rita heard the slamming of this closet door. And at once her fury faintly raged. So Bert thought to hide somewhere and dupe her. He should see that she was not so easily deceived.

She turned up the stairs, borne on quickly by her determination. Still no one was visible.

[illegible] dark chamber where Leary lay [illegible]

Kerrigan to the Rescue

In the meantime Bert Kerrigan, [illegible] impelled onward by a force that shamed him even while it ruled him, was making his way toward Wilton Inn. He hated himself for the feeling of doubt which forced him onward. He felt almost able to [illegible] but some subtle force in his own [illegible] him [illegible] had made urged him forward with a queer, half-sensed message that [illegible]

[illegible] go on doubting her, but somehow I have a feeling I'd better [illegible] myself if I didn't go on!" [illegible] wash it to put it to himself.

[illegible] came to the road fronting the old inn. He stood studying it earnestly for a moment. Suddenly the open window framed [illegible] glance which wavered over Kerrigan, but did not focus on him. A moment later she was caught in a [illegible] downward sweeps. It was terribly strained. At last, however, exhausted, he reaches the surface and is hauled into the boat, where he lies quite still for a few moments, apparently exhausted. But in comparatively a few minutes he is ready to plunge again.

In Holland births, marriages, and deaths [illegible] being recorded in a way [illegible] published in [illegible] Wilson Miller gets married, he stops his mill with the arms of the wheel in a slanting position at 1 with [illegible] unfurled. His friends and guests frequently do likewise with their mills, in token of the ceremony. To indicate a birth, the wheel is stopped in a slanting position but at a more acute angle than that of a marriage, and with the two upper sails unfurled. Should a miller die, the sails of a mill are all unfurled, and the wheel is turned round until the arms form an upright cross, in which position they are left until after the funeral takes place.

"I went in and jollied the bartenders and let them have a fine time with the 'Bally Englishman.' After they had enjoyed themselves thoroughly, making fun of the drunkard, they condescended to let the weak-minded idiot go in and meet O'Day and separate himself from a little money. The way I waved my checkbook must have made them figure me out as about the easiest easy mark who had come their way in a long time.

Jimmy Bets on the Giants

"'I wanna bet five thousand on the Giants,' said I, and Mr. O'Day smiled at my antics even while he informed me that was a large order, and he wasn't prepared to fill it at once.

"Just then in came an A. D. T. boy with a message which that gentleman read with much gusto, even while the negligible drunkard peered over his shoulder.

"'The note the messenger brought read: "Got him, Mack." And then O'Day turned to me with a grin such as the Walrus and the Carpenter must have bestowed on the oysters before they ate them, back in "Through the Looking Glass." To his innocent victim said Martin O'Day: 'Make it ten thousand.'"

"'Ten thousand! He must be sure,' I gasped.

"'Just so,' returned Jimmy dryly, for at Kerrigan is a pitcher at Wilton Inn—and the Giants go to bat in about fifteen minutes!'"

(To Be Continued)

Picturesque Addresses

Greetings between strangers are matters of considerable importance in India. … is here shown.

"In India the etiquette of addressing a stranger on the road, from behind or from a distance, is too important to be ignored by any man who has the least regard for the conventions. Briefly, in localities unconrupted by the bad manners of large towns, the precise form of salutation is determined by the relative position and sex of the persons addressed. Thus, there is a wide range of high-flown Arabic titles appropriate to a Mohammedan, 'Maharaj' will fit an obvious Brahman; 'Patel,' meaning 'yeoman esquire,' beguiles a cheerful reply from a poor cultivator with plough on shoulder.

"'O thou from Jagannath-Feri' should always be cried when the presence of a palm-leaf umbrella denotes that the bearer is a pilgrim from the famous shrine in Orissa; but men and women who have come from the wild of hill water of life, the amritpani, at Bandakpur, where the Jungle-songs beat in honor of the great god Mahadeo, are hailed [illegible]

[illegible] comes the countersign, 'Hom, hom, Mahadeo!' from the dusty file of pilgrims who hold their heads the higher for the recognition by a stranger of their merit and the toil that went to win it.

"'O little old human woman!' is called with no hint of discourtesy, to the village crone, who, being hard [illegible]

"When all but the sex of the wayfarer is uncertain there are many felicitous makeshifts to fall back on, such as 'O person!' or 'O you!' or, as a last resort, 'O inner lamp of the house'—a form which has contemptible lack of resource in the individual who employs it."

Did Not Advertise

During a meeting of [illegible] waiters held recently someone told the following:

"A man entered a shop one day and bought a watch something [illegible] with a note [illegible] in them. 'If you are single please write to—.'

"A name and address followed as the man signed. He was single. He placed the photo on [illegible] table. In a week he [illegible]

Approved Recipes

The following recipes have been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute, conducted by GOOD HOUSEKEEPING, and are published here by special arrangement with that publication, the Nation's Greatest Home Magazine.

All measurements are level, standard half-pint measuring cups, tablespoons, and teaspoons being used. Sixteen level teaspoonfuls equal a half-pint. Quantities are sufficient for six people unless otherwise stated. Flour is sifted once before measuring.

Puffballs with Tomatoes

Six small puffball mushrooms, 6 tomatoes, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, ½ teaspoonful salt, ¼ teaspoonful paprika, 3 cupfuls water.

Cut the tomatoes fine and stew in the water for twenty minutes. Rub through a puree sieve. Add the puffballs, diced, the salt and the paprika, and simmer for ten minutes. The puffballs should be about the size of potatoes. All vegetables are wholesome and delicious if eaten when the flesh is as white as curd.

Hot Chicken Sandwiches.

Cook the chicken until very tender in plenty of water, so that there will be a good supply of stock. This may be done in the fireless cooker. Cool, remove the meat from the bones, and clip it into bits about one-quarter inch thick with scissors. Pass the skin and giblets (omitting the liver) through the food chopper, and mix the shredded chicken with enough stock to make the mixture moderately moist; season well with salt and pepper. Thicken the remaining stock with one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour mixed in a little cold water to each cupful of stock. Let boil thoroughly and season well. To serve, allow two slices of bread cut moderately thin for each sandwich. Place one slice on a plate with a spoonful of the chicken mixture spread over the top. Turn the second slice over the chicken, and dip a ladle of gravy over it. Serve with mashed potato. One chicken should make fifteen generous sandwiches, as there is no waste. These are especially good for a church supper or luncheon and with a cone of mashed potato may be served at a good profit for twenty cents apiece.

Eggs, Mundo Nuevo

Five eggs, ½ can mock turtle soup, 1 cupful soft bread crumbs, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, ½ tablespoonful salt, ¼ teaspoonful pepper, 1-3 teaspoonful curry powder.

Melt 1 tablespoonful of the butter in a baking dish; cover with the crumbs and pour over the soup, diluted with one-third cupful of hot water. Break the eggs carefully over the top. Sprinkle with the seasoning, dot with the remaining butter, and bake from twelve to fifteen minutes in a moderate oven until the eggs are set.

[illegible] is a well-known fact that [illegible] pearl fishers and divers [illegible] have long been [illegible] to stay for [illegible] feet or more without any special outfit, and the strain wears them out before their lives are really half over. When he is [illegible] to dive the Malay slowly lowers himself down from the side of the boat to the water and takes several breaths, each breath getting deeper and deeper. Finally, he takes a tremendously long breath, turns head downwards, and plunges into the ocean depths. In two, three, or perhaps, if he is a very expert diver, in four minutes, his form is seen in the water coming up. His face is turned upwards. His strong hands beat the water away from under [illegible] forward and upward in a whirling vortex of emotion which he did not [illegible] to control.

While Leary caught Rita in his arms and silenced her attempt at a shriek Horgan hurried down the stairs waiting for what new [illegible]

And this five, ultra-intricate, thinks over a torturous trail that leads you against the sun, and into the black heart of the earth—but all the same she comes panting along to the same journey's end. This is all fairly true, wrong analysis, in all the choosing of a mate.

So, says the man who knows, holding up a finger to mark time, "A man may trifle with the frivolous girl, he may get himself meshed in a tangle with the girl of intense feeling; but if he is the right kind of a man he will marry in the end the girl whom savage and direct instinct tells him will mother splendid children and know how to care for them. And sometimes that means a mighty plain face!"

Here is an answer to your letter, Mademoiselle "I WONDER."

But here—thankful I am—is a precious lifebelt for us all—we feminines. A powder-puff and curling hair, and a snubby nose, doesn't always mean a FRIVOLOUS girl. Jades and tremendous gloomy eyes and a TENDER voice doesn't always mean the INTENSE. And a plain face doesn't ALWAYS mean a Madonna heart. But it looks that way in a picture. So

"Wear-Ever"

ALUMINUM UTENSILS

"Wear-Ever" aluminum utensils are made from thick, hard, sheet aluminum which has been pressed under enormous rolling mills and pounded by huge stamping machines. Only the strongest, best metal pan stood such tremendous pressure—and that is the kind you get in "Wear-Ever" Utensils. They are made without joints or seams or places for food to lodge—no coming to chip off—are pure and safe. Their wonderful durability saves the expense and annoyance of constantly buying new cooking utensils.

Sold by leading Department, Housefurnishing and Hardware Stores. If you do not yet know why so many women prefer "Wear-Ever" to other kinds of aluminum and enameled utensils, get a one-qt. Steamer for only 25c or more or from us, postage paid. Offer good only until November 30, 1916. Address

PRICES RISE IN RESTAURANTS OF BOSTON

Beef stew is about the only item on the bills of fare of the Boston restaurants that has withstood the fluctuations of the food market.

This fact was disclosed by a tour today that included visits to the popular eating houses where one does not need to have a big roll to appease his hunger.

Most of the other standbys have caught the fever and have jumped skyward in price.

Even "ham and eggs" succumbed today and yielded to the pressure brought to bear in the market.

HAM AND EGGS UP.

This popular dish, after struggling bravely, can no longer stand the high cost of living. In many restaurants twenty-five cents up to today would purchase a plate of ham and eggs.

Five cents has been added to the price. The ham tastes much the same, the eggs are neither better nor worse than formerly, but the price has jumped just the same.

The bull market hasn't yet affected stewed prunes. Here the price is still five cents. Potato salad is still firm. Ten cents will obtain a plate of this dish and the portion seems as large as ever.

OTHER FOODS RISE.

The story about most of the other dishes that are popular in the lower-priced restaurants is a sad one. Pies, for the most part, are ten cents, coffee has jumped another nickel in many places, and steaks and chops are forty cents where thirty was the standard price a year ago.

Not so long ago it was possible to obtain a cup of coffee and a crueller for five cents at a lunch counter in dairy stores. Today if you ask in a matter-of-fact way for a crueller when the uniformed girl serves the drink, she will tell you that, of course, you may have it, but that it will cost you an additional two cents.

The restaurant keepers explain that they are reaping no benefit by the increase in prices.

If you are sufficiently interested, they will tell how beans that formerly sold for $7.80 a hundred pounds now bring $9.65; that eggs, which used to be sold for 26 cents a dozen, now fetch 44 cents in the wholesale market, and that flour has risen from $8.80 to $9.60.

OTHER INCREASES.

Other prices to which the restaurant proprietors draw attention are: Peas, $6.75, from $3.85; veal, 21 cents, from 19; bacon, 14 cents, from 12½; sugar, 5 cents, from 5; fowls, 21 cents, from 14; butter, 36 cents, from 28, and eggs, 44 cents, from 34.

There are a few crumbs of comfort in the thought that the new price schedule isn't peculiar to Boston. The same condition holds true in New York and in practically every other city in the country.

FLOUR IS SELLING AT $11 A BARREL

One grade of flour sold in Boston today at $11 a barrel, retail. This is the highest price in Boston's recent history.

This flour wholesales at $10 in carload lots. Ordinary first quality Minneapolis patents sold at $9.20 wholesale, carload lots, today and at about $10.25 retail.

These prices represented almost a 100 per cent. increase since the war began. In July, 1914, before war was declared, the flour that went to $11 today was retailing at $6.25, and the flour that cost $10.25 at retail today was selling then at $5.75.

The cheapest flour in Boston today was costing $8.60 wholesale, or about $9.60 retail.

Flour men said today the price would go higher and that $12 a barrel was almost inevitable.

"Wheat is about $1.60 a bushel in the Chicago pit," said one man today. "It takes five bushels to make a barrel of flour—and there you are. Two-dollar wheat is not at all out of the question."

80 PER CENT. OF PUPILS RETURN

Superintendent F. B. Dyer of the public schools said today that 80 per cent. of the pupils had returned. When a case of infantile paralysis appears in any district it is likely to diminish the attendance at the schools in that particular district.

"We have 80 per cent. of the scholars attending the schools now," said Dr. Dyer.

"This is not far astray for numbers when you consider that in normal times we have 90 per cent.

"In another week we will make a better showing. Everything is being done to look after the health of the pupils while in schools. This is so carefully carried out that there is no danger of any child taking the disease if constant watchfulness will prevent it.

"The public schools of Boston will use every means to protect the interests of the parents. When we can restore them of this, as we have been trying, the attendance will easily go up to the normal figure."

HEARING ON FREE LABOR EXCHANGES

The special commission on social insurance held a public hearing on "The Prevention and Relief of Unemployment" at the State House today. Opponents of the plan of establishing free labor exchanges were given an opportunity to be heard.

The commission will begin a series of public hearings in Pittsfield, Holyoke and Fitchburg on October 9, 10 and 11, respectively.

Suffrage Mass Meeting.

A suffrage mass meeting will be held in the ward room, corner Bunker Hill and Lexington streets, Saturday, October 7, at 8 p. m. Miss Helen Walker, Frank J. Donahue, former Secretary of State, and others will speak.

NEW HIGH MARKS IN THE STOCK MARKET

New high record prices today resulted from bullish trading on the New York Stock Exchange, while railroad stocks were early leaders, public demand for stocks soon included steels, coppers and a few important specialties.

The high records were Central Leather 88, American Beet Sugar 58½, Norfolk & Western 145¾ and Tobacco Products 104¾. Lehigh Valley at 84 and New York Central at 114¾ were higher than any time since 1914.

Incentive for the buying of stocks was found in reports of unprecedented earnings with prospects of increased dividends and in many cases of melon cutting. By noon, however, heavy profit-taking sales had caused recessions all the leaders at the opening. Other steels advanced fractionally. Bell-weather of the coppers, gained 1⅜ points at noon.

Much attention was attracted by Central Leather, a gain of four points, based on reports of the company's earnings.

Other important gains at noon were: American Woolen common 2¾, National Lead 2¾, New York Air Brake 1, Westinghouse 1, American Beet Sugar 1½, Utah Copper 1½, Inspiration 1¼, American Zinc 1¼, Lehigh Valley 1¼ and Nevada Consolidated 1¼.

While the volume of business in Boston was not large, the market was strong, with most of the active stocks. Swift & Co. made another new high record of 164⅝, up ⅝.

Mohawk, Quincy Tube, Osceola, Arcmeek and Island were up a point each, while Tamarack advanced 1¼ and Copper Range 1⅜. American Zinc gained 1¼.

Cleveland Likes Daylight Plan

The daylight saving plan has been in operation in Cleveland for the last three years and has been a success, according to Miss Mary Hopkins, editorial secretary, who recently came from the Ohio city. By city ordinance, the clocks were turned ahead one hour, and all the year round now the people of the city have practically made extra time for recreation, she says.

Miss Hopkins is an advocate of the daylight saving plan and an unqualified believer. "It is not theoretical; it works," she says. "Boston and other cities would do well to adopt it. It works out always for the improvement of living conditions. The people have more time to play; the play time is during the hours of natural light, and the best of it comes the people are more ready to work.

"Tremendous increase in the attendance at the parks and recreation centres in Cleveland has resulted since the plan took place," she says. "Twilight lasts until 9 o'clock in the evening.

"Of course the electric light companies opposed it," she said. "They said it would cut down the use of lights. When the steam railroads were first considered the fear was that it would ruin their business. It would ruin their business they said. Well, steam railroads did ruin stage coach business; but who wants to go back to stage coach days?"

Venus de Clam in Harvard Course

Venus is coming to Harvard! Hurrah! said many of the students who had heard of the well-known beauty's approach. She was coming for anatomical study.

"She's a peach," said one with the air of being on the inside. Venus came to Harvard yesterday. She was one of the fresh, neither did she bear resemblance to her famous namesake, Venus de Milo. Harvard's Venus was Venus de Clam.

Under the position of "An Anatomical Venus," the crimson editorially this morning explains her presence as follows:

"It was announced with evident satisfaction at the first meeting of Zoology 1 that Venus would form an important part of the course. Since the purpose of the professor was to increase enrollment in the course, the most reliable result was to have awakened interest in the realm of science by the students.

"Whether or not he announced having allowed the proper dramatic pause to increase that Venus is a form of mussel which will be used for dissection purposes instead of the French artist's well-known model on account of the war, and the class settled down to the normal lecture room lethargy."

AUSTRALIANS MOVE TO BAR U. S. NOVELS

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 5.—An embargo is to be put on American novels and magazines by Australia if literary men there can accomplish it. The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has learned that writers of Australia had organized. They have started a movement to bar the large quantity of American and English publications pouring into the country.

HUGHES IS FAVORITE AT ODDS OF 9 TO 5

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 5.—Betting odds on Hughes in Wall Street were conceded to 9 to 5 today. Edward McQuade, a curb broker, placed $10,000 to $18,000 on President Wilson and later offered $5,000 more. L. J. Stokes, another curb broker, had $5,000 to place on Hughes at 9 to 5. More Wilson money is in evidence than since the beginning of the campaign.

SERVICES FOR FR. CORRIGAN

A triple service was conducted today for the Rev. John M. Corrigan, rector of St. Catherine's Church, Norwood, where he had been for eight years. At 9 o'clock a low requiem mass was said by the Rev. M. J. Hurley, also at 9 o'clock the Rev. Thomas J. Macdermack, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, celebrated a requiem high mass.

At 10 o'clock the solemn high mass of requiem was sung by the Rt. Rev. Mgr. George J. Patterson of St. Joseph's Church, South Boston, assisted by the Rev. Thomas J. Gerrity of Jamaica Plain, as deacon, and the Rev. Robert J. Bowers of Cambridge, as sub-deacon. The Rev. Father MacCormack, the pastor, was master of ceremonies. Mgr. James J. Conroy, rector of Hyde Park, where Father Corrigan was born and educated, delivered the eulogy.

Bishop Joseph Anderson of Portchester pronounced absolution at the close of the mass. The interment of the mass was sung by a choir of the clergy of the archdiocese, and the recitin of the Rev. M. J. Scanlon of the Cathedral.

Scores of priests were present together with delegations from the Knights of Columbus, Foresters and Catholic Order of Foresters of Norwood. Interment was in Fairview Cemetery, Hyde Park.

Archie Roosevelt Again at Harvard

Archie Roosevelt is back at Harvard. He didn't earn much during his summer vacation, but said he had a busy time. He had planned to go to work in a factory in Chicago, but after he was too strong for him when college was over, and his noted father was too busy preaching preparedness for young men for him to eschew a summer season at the government public camp, so he spent most of his vacation hours drilling.

Cowardly Shirking of Duty Only Promotes Anarchy and Excites Contempt of the Whole World

LAUDING Mr. Wilson in an article published in the Atlantic Monthly, President Eliot says:

"To President Wilson's Administration the country owes its thorough committal to two policies which nearly concern its righteousness and its dignity. The first of these policies is no war with Mexico. The second is no intervention by force of arms to protect on foreign soil American commercial and manufacturing adventurers who of their own free will have invested their money or risked their lives in foreign parts under alien jurisdictions."

President Wilson, in his recent carefully prepared address, says that certain persons want—

"The force of the United States used to produce in Mexico the kind of law and order which some American investors in Mexico consider to their advantage."

Now, here, you will notice, is the same tone of hostility, and even of bitterness, toward Americans who have gone into Mexico and invested their time and their money in efforts to develop that country and to make money for themselves in that useful work.

The wise, able and far-seeing Diaz, the only ruler who ever gave Mexico security, happiness and prosperous development, invited, encouraged and gladly welcomed Americans and American investment. He saw clearly that the development work of these investors was bound to help his own people—that building railroads and irrigation systems and operating mines and ranches MUST provide employment for the poor peons and eventually result in the education and the uplifting of those ignorant and inefficient laborers.

That was the view and the policy of a wise and capable statesman who found Mexico in anarchy, who gave it security and stable government and a place among civilized governments, and whose expulsion and final death resulted in a return to the old wretched conditions under the brigandage and misrule of various robbers and wholesale assassins.

Yet these same Americans, engaged in useful and honorable development work in Mexico, present themselves to the mental vision of Dr. Eliot as "adventurers" who deserve no protection either for their lives or their property, and present themselves to Mr. Wilson's mental vision as unscrupulous and selfish conspirators who desire the protection of their government only to aid nefarious schemes of despoiling the Mexican people.

We do not know whether the fantastic ignorance of these assumptions or the pusillanimous cowardice of the policy of non-protection of American citizens who are lawfully resident in or carrying on business in a foreign country stirs a manly American heart to more profound disgust.

We think that the maintenance of American rights and the protection of any American citizen's life and property, anywhere and everywhere in the world, is the very highest and the most fundamental obligation and duty of the President of the United States.

We cannot imagine the processes of a mind which is willing to go to war to protect the technical right of American citizens to travel unharmed in foreign belligerent ships, through dangerous OCEAN ZONES, and at the same time announces that there will be "no intervention by force of arms to protect on foreign SOIL American commercial and manufacturing adventurers who of their own free will have invested their money or risked their lives in foreign parts, under alien jurisdiction."

We believe—no, we know—that this is the most illogical and indefensible, as it is the most shameful and cowardly, policy ever proclaimed by an American President since the people of the United States began to elect Presidents.

According to this amazing doctrine, the property of an American munitions manufacturer, on its way to Europe to aid in the slaughter of human beings, and which is on a foreign ship AND UNDER ALIEN JURISDICTION, will be defended by the American Government by force of arms, and the life of the munitions maker, if he travels on the same ship with his murderous cargo, will be protected by force of arms though he is, "of his own free will, risking his life under alien jurisdiction," but—

The property of an American citizen who has built a railroad or opened and stocked a store or erected a factory or is operating a mine in Mexico, in a perfectly orderly manner and under the guarantee of Mexican laws and of the obligation of his own civilized country to protect his rights, will NOT be protected, nor will his life be protected or his murder resented if he is assassinated, because he has, of his own free will, "risked his investment and his life in foreign parts under alien jurisdiction."

Now we leave it to your common sense to say whether this two-faced and rubber-jointed declaration of absolutely opposite policies in Mexico and on the high seas is not as unreasonable as it is cowardly and disgraceful.

We are ashamed that an American President should so make our nation ridiculous and contemptible, and amazed that the President Emeritus of one of our foremost universities should see nothing illogical in propositions that a schoolboy could show to be diametrically opposed to one another.

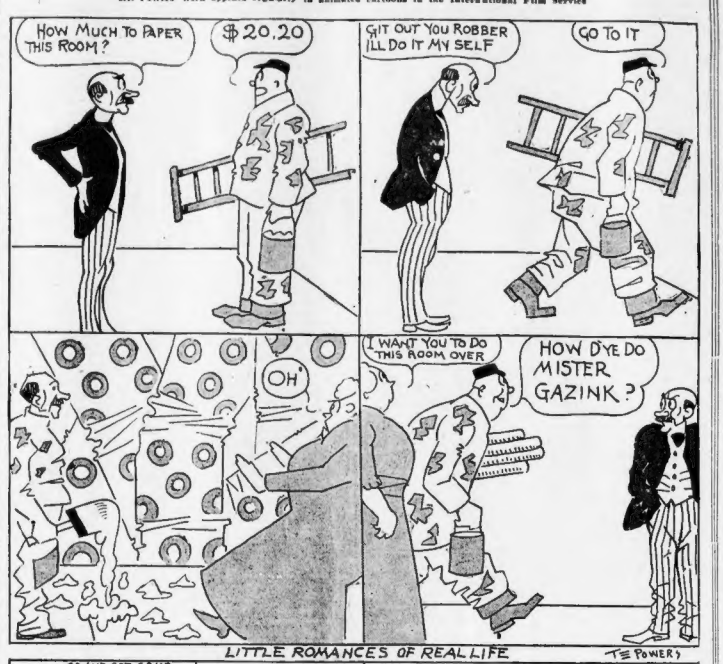
During one hundred and forty years of American national life, no American President ever even suspected that it was not his duty to protect an American's life and an American's property in any foreign country and on any sea where he happened to be engaged in lawful travel or in lawful transaction of business.

Upon that proposition President Washington threatened France with war and dismissed the French Minister.

HOW D'YE DO, MR. GAZINK?

Copyright, 1916, International News Service.

Mr. Powers' work appears regularly in animated cartoons in the International Film Service



Upon that proposition the United States made war upon the Barbary States. Upon that proposition President Madison made war upon England. Upon that proposition an American captain, in the harbor of Trieste, stripped his ship for action and gave the Austrian navy twenty-four hours to fight or deliver up a naturalized American seized and detained by an Austrian war vessel. Upon that proposition President Polk made war upon Mexico. Upon that proposition we made war upon Spain.

And upon that proposition a fearless and manly American President WOULD THREATEN FORCE OF ARMS AND IF NECESSARY EMPLOY FORCE OF ARMS AT ANY TIME UPON ANY NATION ON EARTH if there were no other way in which the lives and properties of Americans could be protected EXCEPT by force of arms.

The nation that will not protect its own citizens in their lawful residence and business adventures in foreign parts is a cowardly nation and invites and has and merits the contempt of every other nation.

And the nation which by cowardice invites the contempt of other nations also invites and will sooner or later have the armed aggression of other nations.

The straight and sure way to war is to shirk the obligation to protect the national honor and the lives and the rights of citizens, on the quibbling and cowardly plea that the performance of that high obligation might bring on war.

The only way in which the lives and properties of Americans can be protected in Mexico is to restore law and order in Mexico, and if it is necessary to intervene by force of arms to restore order and law in that unhappy country, why, surely such forcible armed intervention is a thousand times more humane and more desirable than the frightful reign of anarchy, murder and robbery which has been devastating Mexico for four brutal and bloody years.

We should think any intelligent man, whether he is humane or not, could realize the danger and loss, as well as the horrid inhumanity, of permitting riot and anarchy and murder to persist for years in adjacent Mexico, and to keep on continually increasing until it finally overflows our own borders.

ANY KIND OF LAW AND ORDER WOULD BE INFINITELY PREFERABLE TO THE PRESENT ANARCHY.

And all that four years of Mr. Wilson's Mexican policy has resulted in is an aggravation and increase of anarchy.

Mexico is ten times worse off today than it was when Woodrow Wilson first intervened to drive out Huerta and to encourage and to arm Villa.

It surely takes an incredible quality of self-satisfaction and personal misvaluation to ask the American people to endorse a policy which can show nothing but mistakes, failures, and a more frightful and brutally bloody anarchy as the result of four years of stubborn persistence.

We are today the object of the sneers of Europe, the contempt of yellow Japan and the jeers and scorn and abuse and outrage of Mexican bandits.

The American flag is spit upon and trampled under foot by any Mexican murderer and thief who can gather a beggarly following of a few hundred ragged half-breeds.

The American army is taunted and jeered at by half-breed dogs that a regiment of American cavalry could run clear across Mexico.

American men and women and children are abused, robbed and murdered by any band of wandering robbers and thieves who happen to find them alone and unarmed.

And Mexican men and women and children are robbed, abused, tortured, starved and reduced to despair and to agony by these same villains, ARMED WITH AMERICAN RIFLES AND KEPT FROM BEING PUNISHED BY OUR SOLDIERS BY OUR VERY OWN GOVERNMENT.

Citizens—fellow-Americans—how can we retain the respect of the world or our own self-respect if we continue to permit these shameful and disgraceful conditions to persist?

Who will respect a nation that does not protect its own citizens?

Who will fear a people that are not ashamed to brand themselves as cowards?

Who will pay the slightest attention to the remonstrances of a Government which itself proclaims that anybody who wishes to do so can kill "American commercial and manufacturing adventurers who take their persons and property into foreign parts" with impunity?

Imagine George Washington putting his hand to such a bare and shameful declaration of cowardly policy!

Imagine any one trying to praise Abraham Lincoln to his face by attributing to him such mean and base policy!

And, Americans, what base strain has found its way into our blood that we are asked to indorse and to applaud a policy that would have made Washington or Lincoln kick out of his presence the coward who dared even to propose such a policy?

Are we, then, not our fathers' sons in manly deed and truth?

Have we kept only their honorable names and lost all of their spirit and their valor?

They stood looking the whole world in the face and proudly declaring to that world that whoever laid lawless and violent hands upon a citizen of the United States should feel the avenging hand of the American people in any quarter of the globe in which he might take refuge; and without reward to what power might attempt to shelter him—and all the world knew that they meant what they said and that not a hair of the head of one of their countrymen could be harmed without danger of war.

And then we were a little people, countrymen—a handful, as it were, in the wilderness and on the shore of the Atlantic sea.

And now, now, when we number a hundred millions and are rich beyond credence and have at our command resources of power which make small all the dreams of a Napoleon, our President and heads of our great universities and sycophantic politicians and crack-brained fanatics tell us that we should lie down on our faces before bandit dogs of Mexico and eat dirt and shame our noble fathers' memories and court the scorn of the world rather than to risk a manly defence of the lives of our fellow citizens and the honor and the good name of our dear country!

Citizens, the nation that deliberately adopts and long follows such policies of meanness, baseness, fearfulness and cowardice will sooner or later be the terrified and abused and brutally beaten and outraged and despoiled prey of some other people whose courage is equal to their rapacity and their brutality.

Citizens, that is the solemn TRUTH.

Take it to your hearts.

Teach Your Children Habits of Thrift, Says Dorothy Dix

A Home Training in Extravagance, Thanks to the Foolish Indulgence of Short-Sighted Parents, May Handicap a Boy or Girl for Life, Says Noted Woman Writer

By Dorothy Dix

ARE you raising your boy to be a spender?

Are you teaching your girl to be a waster?

Are you bringing up your children to throw money away, and to think that the only use of a dollar is to blow it in as quickly as possible?

Are you inculcating in your children no idea of economy, and no habit of thrift?

If you are, you are blighting your children's lives. You are handicapping their future.

You are raising up a man who will be poor, and hard run, and in debt to the end of his days. He will be one of those men who, with plenty of ability and energy, never arrive anywhere, and who at last get discouraged and qualify as members of the Down and Out Club.

You are raising up a daughter who will keep her husband's nose to the grindstone as long as he lives, and who will bar his way to success by her mountains of bills.

Fond and Foolish Parents Often Stint Themselves to Spoil Their Children

The greatest fault in the American character is extravagance, and instead of trying to eradicate it in their children, the average father and mother cultivate it.

Go into any household that you will, and you will be shocked at the way the children are taught to waste money. All day long there is a never-ending appeal from Johnnie and Mamie and Susie for dimes for the movies, nickels for ice cream and soda water, and pennies for this or that.

This is the case even among people who have to toil hard for every dollar they have, and who live always on the ragged edge of hard times. They are bound that their children shall be indulged. Father will do without the warm coat that he needs and mother will wear leaky shoes that Johnnie and Mamie may have some ridiculously expensive toy upon which they have set their hearts.

"We want our children to be happy. We don't want them to be burdened when they are little by having to think how far a dollar can be made to go, as we do. They'll have to worry about money soon enough," say those parents, in self-excuse of their folly.

A Child Trained to Extravagance Is Foredoomed to Poverty All His Life

To which one may reply that if you begin teaching children thrift in their cradles they will not have to stretch their dollars so far, nor will they need to worry about money when they come to their parents' age. Nothing is more certain than this, that if we take care of our money when we are young, our money will take care of us when we are old.

Any boy who grows up with the belief that money was only made to spend, and whose money burns in his pocket until it burns a hole through it, is foredoomed to poverty. No matter how much he makes, it all goes for nothing.

He can never take advantage of opportunities that come his way, because opportunity has to be backed by a bank account. If he gets sick or loses his job, he becomes a burden on other people, and in his old age he is dependent on the charity of others. He has got nothing to show for his life's work just because he has never learned to save when he was young.

The wickedest woman on earth is no more a curse to her husband than is the good woman who is wasteful and extravagant. No man can make any headway against a wife with a spending mania.

She makes of her husband a slave who is sold into bondage to milliners and dressmakers and grocers and butchers. Many a great career, many a great man's life is sacrificed to a woman's having the bargain counter habit.

All of these catastrophes could be prevented by parents teaching their children habits of thrift when they are little. If every child was taught to save instead of to spend; if it was taught that a collection of nickels is far more interesting than a collection of marbles or dolls, that one of the most exciting things in the world is to watch a bank account grow, we should do away with nine-tenths of our failures and loafers, and half of our divorces.

Nor is this as difficult a thing as it seems. Foolish spending is simply a bad habit. It's merely the gratification of a passing fancy.

Most of the things that children waste money on they don't want the second after they have gotten them, as is proven by the clutter of toys that every child possesses that he never plays with—useless toys that often total up into the hundreds of dollars.

If the child was taught to at least put half of all the money given him in a bank, and shown how this money grows, and how it represents some big thing he wants, while the money that he spent has gone forever, he would soon become as interested in saving as he is in wasting.

A Savings Bank Account Appeals to a Child as Few Other Things Do

Every child should have a savings bank account started in his own name. He should be permitted to go personally to the bank with his little deposit, and he will soon come to feel that it's far more interesting experience than a visit to the candy shop, and that the sense of pride in having a real bank book to show the other boys is a more exhilarating feeling than exhibiting a new bat or ball.

I have seen the bank account experiment tried on numerous small boys and girls, and I have never seen a child yet that didn't respond enthusiastically to it, nor one who didn't get so interested in it that he or she didn't soon begin to let mother and father and uncles and aunts know that a check was the most acceptable of all presents on birthdays and holidays.

You can get a child interested in saving for a definite purpose—a bicycle, a motor boat, a trip—anything that is a big desire, and in so doing you have taught him one of the great lessons of life, to sacrifice the impulse of the moment for a greater pleasure later on, to do without the little things that he may have the big thing.

Teach your children thrift when they are little. It makes them good citizens, good husbands, good wives. It assures them of independence and prosperity. Don't be afraid of making them care too much for money. The people who care most for money are those who haven't got it, and who feel the need of it at every turn.

Don't raise your children to be spenders.
